"Man and Check" Talked Of

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Nov. 12—(UP)—Federal bureau of investigation agents today investigated the reported kidnapping of Dr. James I. Seder, 79, former superintendent of the West Virginia Anti-Saloon League, who was found in an abandoned coal mine after being absent from his home here since Nov. 2.

Dr. Seder, found by a group of farmers in the old mine 40 miles from Huntington in Wayne county, was brought to a hospital here. His condition was reported as favorable. His eye was blackened, his nose cut, and he was suffering from shock and exposure. There were blood stains on his clothing.

PHYSICIANS MOVE TO PROTECT MANY FROM PNEUMONIA

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(UP)—Possible mass inoculation of Americans to attempt to eradicate pneumonia, third on the list of diseases which take the heaviest toll of life, was considered today by nine medical experts who met with Dr. Thomas Farrar, Jr., surgeon general of the U. S. public health service.

Dr. Lloyd R. Felton, Baltimore bacteriologist and a member of the group, discovered the serum which is now being given to 300,000 members of the Civilian Conservation Corps to protect them against pneumonia. The serum is effective in about two out of every three cases of pneumonia, Felton said.

The conference, it was understood, was to consider the possibility of making the serum available through mass production methods. Doctors, however, were warned that it was expensive to produce the serum in small lots. They also were told that the serum would spoil unless there was adequate provision in various sections of the nation for its storage.

At the army medical center here, doctors have been working for several months to produce the serum needed to inoculate the 300,000, C. C. C. members.

SQUABBLE OVER PROCEDURE HITS GAS CO. ACTION

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12—(UP)—A dispute between the Public Utilities Commission and the office of Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy threatened today to block immediate action by the state to force the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. to stop mixing inert, non-burnable gases with its natural gas supply.

The difference was over proper methods of legal procedure against the company.

The commission asked the attorney general to intervene on behalf of the state in the $42,000,000 damage suit brought against the Columbia Gas & Electric Corp. and numerous ones of its affiliates, including Ohio Fuel Gas, in Franklin county courts.

Duffy was requested to ask the court to give prompt and speedy consideration to the issuance of the injunction against the gas mixing process sought in that suit, which was filed by City Attorney John L. Davies of Columbus as a private citizen.

The north room of the former dormitory is being divided by a steel screen into two sections, one to serve as a cell for Mrs. Hahn, the other for her matron. The walls are being recovered with a coat of cream-colored paint.

Italy's Pact Approval Cited
As Help

TOKYO, Nov. 12—(UP)—Japan, driving toward victory on all fronts in China and strengthened by Italy's adhesion to the Japanese-German anti-Communist alliance, rejected today a second invitation to attend the Far Eastern peace conference at Brussels.

There were unofficial reports that the government might follow up its action by demanding revision of, or even denouncing, the nine power treaty under which the Brussels conference was convoked to discuss measures to end the Japanese-Chinese war.

The cabinet met today and decided to reject the invitation. Foreign Minister Koki Hirota went to the imperial palace from the cabinet meeting to inform Emperor Hirohito.

The government informed the Brussels conference that the present action in China was purely in self defense and hence entirely outside the scope of the nine power treaty. The entire incident should be settled by direct Chinese-Japanese negotiations only, it was asserted.

First Plea Declined

This second invitation was sent in the name of the 19 nations attending the Brussels conference. These nations are either signatory or adherent to the nine power treaty which is supposed to guarantee China's political and territorial sovereignty and integrity. Previously the government had rejected an invitation from the government of Belgium, as host, to attend.

Foreign Minister Hirota instructed Japanese Ambassador Saburo Kuruu at Brussels to convey the government's rejection of the new invitation to the conference.

Mr. Kiger was granted a divorce in Common Pleas court Thursday from Anna R. Kiger, a resident of Syracuse, N. Y., on the grounds of neglect of duty. They were married on another Armistice Day, Nov. 11, 1919 in Covington, Ky. There are no children.

Mr. Kiger's petition charged his wife had been absent from the home for two years.

FIGHT OVER CROP CONTROL LOOMS

Brother of Speaker Asks Compulsory Law; Lynch Bill Considered

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(UP)—A vigorous demand by Sen. John Bankhead, D. Ala., for compulsory crop control, precipitated conferences among congressional leaders today to seek an end of the controversy over plans for farm and labor legislation at the special session opening Monday.

Senate Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley, D. Ky., and Speaker of the House William B. Bankhead, D. Ala., sought to bolster prospects for successful enactment of President Roosevelt's program by cutting short threats of prolonged battling at the outset of the session. Barkley arranged to confer with Mr. Roosevelt at noon.

PRICE OF WHEAT FUTURES CLIMBS IN EARLY TRADING

CHICAGO, Nov. 12—(UP)—Wheat prices shot up more than three cents a bushel on a rush of sudden buying in the pit of the Chicago Board of Trade today.

Re-opening after the Armistice Day holiday, traders poured a heavy volume of buying orders into the pit on reports of extended frost damage to the Argentine crop.

December wheat opened at 98 1/2 cents, up 3 cents; May wheat was 93 cents, up 3 1/2 cents and July futures started out at 83 cents, a gain of 3 1/2 cents.

Liverpool traders were the first to start a heavy buying movement on the reports of damage to the Argentine wheat crop and gains in the British market ranged four to more than six cents a bushel. Because of the holiday yesterday, buying orders on yesterday's firm Liverpool action piled up and added weight to today's bull rush.

Strikebreaker King

PEARL BERGOFF, alleged "Strikebreaker King", was paid $25,850 by James H. Rand, Jr., for his efforts to break a Remington-Rand strike at Middletown, Conn., his son, Earl, testified in federal court at New Haven, Conn. Bergoff and Rand have been on trial charged with violation of the so-called "anti-strikebreaking" law. The payment of money covered "missionary" activities, young Bergoff said. Bergoff and Rand are alleged to have transported "millwrights" from New York to Middletown "with the intent of interfering with peaceful picketing of the plant by strikers."

SQUABBLE OVER PROCEDURE HITS GAS CO. ACTION

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12—(UP)—A dispute between the Public Utilities Commission and the office of Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy threatened today to block immediate action by the state to force the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. to stop mixing inert, non-burnable gases with its natural gas supply.

The difference was over proper methods of legal procedure against the company.

The commission asked the attorney general to intervene on behalf of the state in the $42,000,000 damage suit brought against the Columbia Gas & Electric Corp. and numerous ones of its affiliates, including Ohio Fuel Gas, in Franklin county courts.

Duffy was requested to ask the court to give prompt and speedy consideration to the issuance of the injunction against the gas mixing process sought in that suit, which was filed by City Attorney John L. Davies of Columbus as a private citizen.

W. W. Metcalf, assistant attorney general assigned as attorney for the utilities commission, maintained today that this was an incorrect procedure.

PEN CELL NEARLY READY TO HOUSE ANNA MARIE HAHN

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12—(UP)—Remodeling of the third floor of Ohio penitentiary's hospital to serve as a sequestered cell for Mrs. Anna Marie Hahn, convicted Cincinnati slayer, probably will be finished Tuesday, Warden James C. Woodard said today.

The quarters in which she will await execution if her plea for a new trial is denied next Monday have been used until now as a dormitory for inmates employed on the night shift at the prison's power plant.

Mrs. Hahn will be the first woman to be imprisoned there since the founding of Marysville reformatory in 1916.

The north room of the former dormitory is being divided by a steel screen into two sections, one to serve as a cell for Mrs. Hahn, the other for her matron. The walls are being recovered with a coat of cream-colored paint.

Warden Woodard said the expense of remodeling will be negligible.

TOKYO REJECTS COUNTRIES' BID TO CONFERENCE

Nipponese Troops Go On In Shanghai; Cabinet Votes Action

HIROTA IS CONFIDENT

Italy's Pact Approval Cited As Help

TOKYO, Nov. 12—(UP)—Japan, driving toward victory on all fronts in China and strengthened by Italy's adhesion to the Japanese-German anti-Communist alliance, rejected today a second invitation to attend the Far Eastern peace conference at Brussels.

There were unofficial reports that the government might follow up its action by demanding revision of, or even denouncing, the nine power treaty under which the Brussels conference was convoked to discuss measures to end the Japanese-Chinese war.

The cabinet met today and decided to reject the invitation. Foreign Minister Koki Hirota went to the imperial palace from the cabinet meeting to inform Emperor Hirohito.

The government informed the Brussels conference that the present action in China was purely in self defense and hence entirely outside the scope of the nine power treaty. The entire incident should be settled by direct Chinese-Japanese negotiations only, it was asserted.

First Plea Declined

This second invitation was sent in the name of the 19 nations attending the Brussels conference. These nations are either signatory or adherent to the nine power treaty which is supposed to guarantee China's political and territorial sovereignty and integrity. Previously the government had rejected an invitation from the government of Belgium, as host, to attend.

Foreign Minister Hirota instructed Japanese Ambassador Saburo Kuruasu at Brussels to convey the government's rejection of the new invitation to the conference. (Continued on Page Two)

Chinese Suppressed In Captured City

SHANGHAI, Nov. 12—(UP)—Shanghai authorities, gravely anxious lest the Japanese army attempt to take over the international settlement, moved today to restrict activities of Chinese organizations in the foreign area.

Police confirmed that they had ordered numerous Chinese organizations with headquarters in the settlement to restrict their activities or disband. It was felt here, the police said, that these organizations were inciting the Chinese populace against Japan to a degree that endangered law and order.

Mayor Without City

Mayor O. K. Pui, of Shanghai, for three months as Chinese chief spokesman has held press conferences twice daily, announced tonight that he would hold no more conferences. Famous for his smile that never failed, during the saddest days of the war, he smiled still as he bade newspapermen goodbye. It was expected that now, a mayor without a city, he would remain in the French colony. (Continued on Page Two) ence. The decision was not immediately made public, though it had been anticipated.

For several days, there have been predictions that the government not only would reject the Brussels invitation but take action to end or revise the nine power treaty, which it holds to have been outdated by events in the years since its signature in Washington in 1922, coincident with the signing of the naval limitation treaty.

Foreign office spokesmen had refused to commit themselves. One said that some sections of the Japanese people favored denunciation of the treaty and others, revision.

Aided in Two Ways

The cabinet's action came after Premier Benito Mussolini's adherence to the Japanese-German alliance against international Communism, which was calculated to strengthen Japan both as concerns Soviet Russia and as concerns any international attempt at coercion to end the war in China. Also, reports from China told of Japanese successes in the Shanghai area and in the north.

cession where Japanese have said they would not go.

It was recalled that only yesterday Gen. Iwane Matsui, Japanese army commander in chief, demanded in an interview that international settlement authorities cooperate with the Japanese. He intimated clearly that the Japanese might attempt to take over the settlement if "co-operation" was not forthcoming.

Japanese troops had almost completed their conquest of the city today. In the Nantao area between the French concession and the Whangpoo river, there were a few hundred Chinese "dare to die" men—crack militarized policemen, mostly, but reinforced by a few regulars. These men were in civilian clothes, which meant that if captured they could ask no mercy under the laws of warfare.

ATMOSPHERE SOUGHT

Residents in campus fraternity houses around Los Angeles were surprised one night last week when a man rapped at the doors and introduced himself as Charlie Forsyth, the sound effects technician of the Radio Theatre. Forsyth was picking up atmosphere for the Radio Theatre production of "She Loves Me Not," starring Bing Crosby and Joan Blondell. Most of the scenes are in a "fraternity house. Forsyth discovered that fraternity phones ring constantly, that collegians still quarrel about who will answer it, that students are still noisy, and that sometimes the radio and phonograph are running at the same time. All of which seems to indicate less change around the fraternity houses than in other departments.

Bob and his wife stayed two days, during the greater part of which he slept.

intensified the problems of the leadership. They were:

1. The unexpected announcement by Sen. Bankhead, brother of the speaker, of a drive for compulsory crop control on the grounds that voluntary control—advocated by the administration—had collapsed. Sen. James Pope, D. Ida., and Sen. George McGill, D. Kans., were seeking vainly to persuade Bankhead to drop his demands.

2. William Green, president of the A. F. of L., was expected shortly to confer with federation leaders to define their position on the wages and hours bill which was tied up in the house rules committee last session. Chairman John J. O'Connor, D. N. Y., of the committee, said that he was "hopeful" of getting the bill to the floor of the house where many amendments will be offered to make drastic revisions. The situation, O'Connor said, has become "greatly confused."

3. A battle appeared almost certain to develop in the senate over the plan of Sen. Frederick Van Nuys, D. Ind., to bring up the anti-lynching bill at once if the farm bill is not ready.

The anti-lynching measure was dropped during a filibuster last session on the pledge of Barkley to give it right-of-way after the farm bill at this session. Van Nuys interpreted the agreement to mean that the measure would be brought up at once if the crop measure is not ready.

UNITED ACTION BY HAY FEVER VICTIMS URGED

DETROIT (UP)—One big union—one big sneeze—and one tremendous victory over the incurable ragweed will result, Mrs. Florence Reed, champion for solidarity in the ranks of the hay-fever sufferers, believes.

Lately returned from a flying trip to Cheboygan, Mich., where another branch of the statewide Hay Fever Club came into line, Mrs. Reed reported that the membership in Michigan had reached a total of about 500.

Mrs. Reed has a more practical and long range plan for the situation than just uttering a mutually sympathetic "Gesundheit!" at each member's weeping ejaculation.

She wants action; action in the state legislature, and it is her belief that if enough sufferers band together for a lobbying attack at the capitol, laws can be passed which will place ragweed beyond the pale in the vegetable kingdom.

"It was in 1929 that I first thought of the idea," she recalled. "People who went up to the Soo for relief from hay fever just sat around looking lonesome. I decided to organize a club and the idea took on."

Mrs. Reed hopes to organize a Detroit group some time near Thanksgiving, which should just about double the Hay Fever Club's state membership.

President Of Brazil Keeps Job

edly was general throughout the country with the exception of Governors Juracy Magalhaes of Bahia and Carlos De Lima Cavalcanti of Pernambuco who were replaced by military zone commanders in their respective capitals. All other state executives pledged their support.

The new Constitution will not lessen democracy, Chancellor Pimentel Brandao told members of the diplomatic corps who anxiously asked government leaders about Brazil's future policy.

Although under the new Constitution a new parliament will consist of a chamber of deputies and a federal council, the latter to replace the senate, the republic's representative system "contains the basis for constructive policy for which is demanded the collaboration of all countries," the chancellor said.

He explained that at the beginning of the presidential campaign, agitators interfered with the concentration of the various parties around one candidate.

"In order to avoid violence," Bandao continued, "the president tried to establish harmony but at the same time the citizens demanded energetic action for solution of the crisis."

"After consulting leading personalities, Vargas decreed a new Constitution, answering the national demand."

One of Vargas' first actions under his virtual dictatorial powers, was to announce indefinite suspension of foreign debt payments "until it is possible to readjust them without bleeding and impoverishing our economic organism."

At the same time the foreign exchange commission disclosed a plan to aid Brazilian foreign trade. It announced that obligations to deliver to the Bank of Brazil a percentage of export bills at the official Mirels exchange rate "will be greatly reduced for coffee and other export products."

At present, 35 percent of export bills must be exchanged at the official rate, leaving only 65 percent for exchange in the higher "free market."

ence. The decision was not immediately made public, though it had been anticipated.

For several days, there have been predictions that the government not only would reject the Brussels invitation but take action to end or revise the nine power treaty, which it holds to have been outdated by events in the years since its signature in Washington in 1922, coincident with the signing of the naval limitation treaty.

Foreign office spokesmen had refused to commit themselves. One said that some sections of the Japanese people favored denunciation of the treaty and others, revision.

Aided in Two Ways

The cabinet's action came after Premier Benito Mussolini's adherence to the Japanese-German alliance against international Communism, which was calculated to strengthen Japan both as concerns Soviet Russia and as concerns any international attempt at coercion to end the war in China. Also, reports from China told of Japanese successes in the Shanghai area and in the north.

cession where Japanese have said they would not go.

It was recalled that only yesterday Gen. Iwane Matsui, Japanese army commander in chief, demanded in an interview that international settlement authorities cooperate with the Japanese. He intimated clearly that the Japanese might attempt to take over the settlement if "co-operation" was not forthcoming.

Japanese troops had almost completed their conquest of the city today. In the Nantao area between the French concession and the Whangpoo river, there were a few hundred Chinese "dare to die" men—crack militarized policemen, mostly, but reinforced by a few regulars. These men were in civilian clothes, which meant that if captured they could ask no mercy under the laws of warfare.

ATMOSPHERE SOUGHT

Residents in campus fraternity houses around Los Angeles were surprised one night last week when a man rapped at the doors and introduced himself as Charlie Forsyth, the sound effects technician of the Radio Theatre. Forsyth was picking up atmosphere for the Radio Theatre production of "She Loves Me Not," starring Bing Crosby and Joan Blondell. Most of the scenes are in a "fraternity house." Forsyth discovered that fraternity phones ring constantly, that collegians still quarrel about who will answer it, that students are still noisy, and that sometimes the radio and phonograph are running at the same time. All of which seems to indicate less change around the fraternity houses than in other departments.

ARMBRUSTER BUSY

Robert Armbruster worked 38 consecutive hours making arrangements for the Sunday Coffee Hour, then rehearsed his orchestra for eight more hours. Then he had four hours sleep, and went to work again until the broadcast was off the air. "Gee, I'm seelin' double," he remarked quietly. Mrs. Armbruster took him to their car. She got behind the wheel. Armbruster went to sleep. When he awakened he was at Coronado Beach, California, 140 miles from Hollywood. Bob and his wife stayed two days, during the greater part of which he slept.

Brother of Speaker Asks Compulsory Law; Lynch Bill Considered

intensified the problems of the leadership. They were:—

1. The unexpected announcement by Sen. Bankhead, brother of the speaker, of a drive for compulsory crop control on the grounds that voluntary control—advocated by the administration—had collapsed. Sen. James Pope, D. Ida., and Sen. George McGill, D. Kans., were seeking vainly to persuade Bankhead to drop his demands.
2. William Green, president of the A. F. of L., was expected shortly to confer with federation leaders to define their position on the wages and hours bill which was tied up in the house rules committee last session. Chairman John J. O'Connor, D. N. Y., of the committee, said that he was "hopeful" of getting the bill to the floor of the house where many amendments will be offered to make drastic revisions. The situation, O'Connor said, has become "greatly confused."
3. A battle appeared almost certain to develop in the senate over the plan of Sen. Frederick Van Nuys, D. Ind., to bring up the anti-lynching bill at once if the farm bill is not ready.

The anti-lynching measure was dropped during a filibuster last session on the pledge of Barkley to give it right-of-way after the farm bill at this session. Van Nuys interpreted the agreement to mean that the measure would be brought up at once if the crop measure is not ready.

UNITED ACTION BY HAY FEVER VICTIMS URGED

DETROIT (UP)—One big union—one big sneeze—and one tremendous victory over the incorrigible ragweed will result, Mrs. Florence Reed, champion for solidarity in the ranks of the hay-fever sufferers, believes.

Lately returned from a flying trip to Cheboygan, Mich., where another branch of the statewide Hay Fever Club came into line, Mrs. Reed reported that the membership in Michigan had reached a total of about 500.

Mrs. Reed has a more practical and long range plan for the situation than just uttering a mutually sympathetic "Gesundheit" at each member's weeping ejaculation. She wants action; action in the state legislature, and it is her belief that if enough sufferers band together for a lobbying attack at the capitol, laws can be passed which will place ragweed beyond the pale in the vegetable kingdom.

"It was in 1929 that I first thought of the idea," she recalled. "People who went up to the Soo for relief from hay fever just sat around looking lonesome. I decided to organize a club and the idea took on."

Mrs. Reed hopes to organize a Detroit group some time near Thanksgiving, which should just about double the Hay Fever Club's state membership.

President Of Brazil Keeps Job

edly was general throughout the country with the exception of Governors Juracy Magalhães of Bahia and Carlos de Lima Cavalcanti of Pernambuco who were replaced by military zone commanders in their respective capitals. All other state executives pledged their support.

The new Constitution will not lessen democracy, Chancellor Pimentel Brandão told members of the diplomatic corps who anxiously asked government leaders about Brazil's future policy.

Although under the new Constitution a new parliament will consist of a chamber of deputies and a federal council, the latter to replace the senate, the republic's representative system "contains the basis for constructive policy for which is demanded the collaboration of all countries," the chancellor said.

He explained that at the beginning of the presidential campaign, agitators interfered with the concentration of the various parties around one candidate.

"In order to avoid violence," Bandao continued, "the president tried to establish harmony but at the same time the citizens demanded energetic action for solution of the crisis."

"After consulting leading personalities, Vargas decreed a new Constitution, answering the national demand."

One of Vargas' first actions under his virtual dictatorial powers, was to announce indefinite suspension of foreign debt payments "until it is possible to readjust them without bleeding and impoverishing our economic organism."

MICHIGAN GIRL DYING FROM SUITOR'S BULLETS

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Nov. 12—(UP)—Pretty Lillian Willig, 26-year-old bookkeeper shot by a negro whose attentions she rejected, was reported dying at St. Joseph's hospital here today.

Hospital attaches said the girl was "sinking fast." They held only the remotest hope for her recovery from five bullet wounds suffered when William Hathaway, 47-year-old negro, shot her in a jealous rage and then took his own life.

A bloody note found in the girl's purse gave a clue to the cause of the attempted killing. An unsigned note found on the negro's body strengthened a belief that his rejected bid for her affections drove him to kill.

HOLIDAY TURKEY TO COST ABOUT 35 CENTS POUND

National Survey Discloses Price Sliding Steadily For Valued Bird

DINNER PRICE FIGURED Value At Present Above 1936's Mark

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. —(UP)— Thanksgiving turkeys should cost no more than 33 cents a pound, ready for the oven, and before the day rolls around next week prices may drop several cents, replies to a United Press survey indicated today.

Producers in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota have indicated that although prices now are one to five cents higher than in 1936, there has been a decline in the last week and before Thanksgiving day turkeys may be no higher than last year.

As for the "trimmin's," here's what national prices appear to be for 1937, about equal or very little higher than 1936 costs:

Potatoes, about two cents a pound; oysters, around 35c a pint; celery 10 to 12 cents a bunch; mince meat, around 25c a pound; cranberries, 16 cents a pound and pumpkin from three cents a pound in bulk to a straight 25 cents each for whole pumpkins. The most expensive item, other than the bird itself, will be nuts which range in price from 69 cents an assorted pound in Minneapolis to 17 cents in Kansas City, Mo. The average price was around 30 cents a pound.

Average Cost $5

On the national average the cost of a dinner for a family of five was figured around $5: New York city's family dinner will cost $8, highest in the nation.

Some family dinner prices were calculated:

| City              | Cost             |
|-------------------|------------------|
| Birmingham        | .....$4.40      |
| Springfield, Ill. | .....$4.34      |
| Albany, N. Y.     | .....$4.00      |
| Des Moines        | .....$3.85-5.07 |
| Detroit           | .....$4.50      |
| Buffalo, N. Y.    | .....$4.63      |
| San Francisco     | .....$3.25      |
| New York City     | .....$8.00      |

In Dallas, Tex., center of the southwestern "turkey belt," housewives will be able to get their gobblers at from 20 to 25 cents a pound "dressed" for the oven.

The highest prices will be paid for birds bought in Pittsburgh, where turkeys to day were listed around 43 cents a pound. Minneapolis, Boston, and Knoxville, Tenn., housewives will pay the next highest price, around 40 cents.

In New Orleans, La., the "national bird," will cost only 21 cents, the least expensive in the country.

Some of the prices on the national turkey price list are:

| City              | Cents per pound |
|-------------------|-----------------|
| Kansas City       | .....25         |
| New Orleans       | .....17-21      |
| Birmingham        | .....30         |
| Knoxville         | .....40         |
| Cleveland         | .....20-24      |
| New York          | .....39         |
| San Francisco     | .....27         |
| Philadelphia      | .....35-39      |
| Minneapolis       | .....30         |
| Washington, D. C. | .....37-39      |
| Chicago           | .....25-26      |
| Hartford, Conn.   | .....35         |

With the usual substitutes for turkey, chicken, ducks, or a goose, the total cost would be considerably less, in the case of New York residents a difference of $4. Other cities reported that use of other meats would reduce the cost from a few cents to a dollar or more.

CHANGE IN WIND SAVES BIG BARN FROM STRAW FIRE

A change in the wind and efforts of Circleville firemen saved a large barn on the farm of Miss Dakota Lutz, east of Circleville, from destruction, Thursday afternoon.

Spontaneous combustion ignited a straw sack at the rear of the building. Firemen answered the call, taking the old truck. The building was soaked with water and a change in the wind carried the flame and sparks away from the building. There was no damage.

The farm is on the Kingston pike in Circleville township.

G-Men Pin Hope on Ransom Money For Solution of Ross Kidnaping, Now Classified as Major Mystery

The abduction of the elderly retired business man has become the major mystery confronting the Federal Bureau of Investigation. His wife paid $50,000 for his release—and the money was taken but Ross was not returned.

Nearly a month elapsed before Mrs. Ross admitted the G-men into the case, having entered into negotiations with an intermediary for the abductors five days after her husband had been abducted on Sept. 25. Upon presentation of convincing evidence that the missing man was in their custody, Mrs. Ross paid the ransom money in five and ten dollar bills. The abductors had until 8 a. m. of Oct. 19 to make good their promise to return Ross.

Sever Contacts

Upon receipt of the $50,000 the abductors cut off all contact with the victim's wife. At the appointed hour the serial numbers of all the ransom bills were released by J. Edgar Hoover, head of the F. B. I. from Washington, and Special Agent Daniel M. Ladd sent scores of his investigators into the case from his headquarters here.

More than 800,000 printed circulars listing the serial numbers of the bills were rushed to police stations and banks throughout the country. But it took publication of this list in a newspaper (Chicago Evening American) to bring the first bills to light. Rewards of $100 were offered by the newspaper for authentic ransom bills brought to the city editor.

While federal agents were trying to find a genuine lead from among the myriad of miscellaneous tips and volunteers' clues that poured in from all sources, two working girls were reading the newspaper in their rooming quarters.

"Gee, wouldn't it be thrilling to find that you had one of those ransom bills?" Miss Florence Glauquinto remarked to her roommate.

The landlady announced that the insurance man was waiting to see her. Miss Glauquinto explained to William Wernecke that she couldn't pay the premium unless he cashed her pay check, which he did. Among the bills he gave her was one for ten dollars.

Find First Bill

After he had gone, the girls checked its serial number with those in the list in the newspaper and to their amazement found that there was one of them.

This lead showed a trail leading into suburban Blue Island. On the theory that gamblers had engineered the abduction, agents began combing gaming haunts. A raid was made on an apartment. The next day the newspaper received an anonymous letter, bearing evidence of being authentic, asserting that the investigators had

ERA FAVORABLE TO GREAT MEN, SAYS HISTORIAN

NEW LONDON, Conn. (UP)—The present age may produce some great men, according to Dr. Dumas Malone, director of the Harvard University Press and for five years editor-in-chief of the Dictionary of American Biography, who has made some interesting generalizations based on statistics from his work on the dictionary.

He said engineers, inventors and business men are making places for themselves beside the soldiers, writers and politicians of old.

"Achievement in public life certainly will not decline," Dr. Malone said, "but it seems likely that we will produce a greater proportion of artistic and literary works than formerly."

"The present age is one of intense vitality. It is in dynamic times such as these that great things are done. Those who will become famous are most probably those who are aligning themselves with important modern trends, and losing themselves in them. The combination of a dynamic period such as ours and a man of great talent and vitality might bring remarkable results."

ransacked and adjointing the one in which Ross was being held. The letter assured the newspaper that he was still alive and named the conspirators in the crime.

The newspaper spurred the hunt for the ransom bills by posting additional rewards for reporting any of the five or ten dollar notes to the city editor. A department store shopper was the next to come up with a ransom bill, having received it as change at a leading State street store.

Previous Cases

All of the leading kidnap cases have been solved through tracing the ransom money and agents admitted that this was their principal hope in "breaking" the Ross mystery.

In the meantime virtually all hope of finding the 72-year-old victim alive has been abandoned. Mrs. Ross issued a statement explaining that her husband needed medical attention and expressing her doubt that he was alive. She said: "His health has undoubtedly suffered by his long detention. His condition requires medical attention. I believe those responsible are unable to deliver by husband at this time."

Newspapermen working on the case added their testimony to the belief that the aged and ailing victim could not have survived the probable treatment received at the hands of the abductors. With federal operatives on their trail, they would have to keep moving from one hideout to another, it was pointed out.

Seized in Car

The elderly Ross was seized during the evening of Sept. 25 at the point of a gun as he was driving back to the city in the company of a former secretary, Miss Florence Freihage, after a day spent at an outlying country club. Two years ago Ross retired as president of the George C. Carrington company, greeting card printers. Shortly before his abduction he had negotiated several large payments on the balance due with a view to going on a trip to Australia with his wife for the winter.

It was this money that the abductors sought. In robbing Miss Freihage of $85, one of the gunmen commented, "He's wealthy, ain't he? Think he'd be good for a half million or a quarter million?"

Within five days an intermediary, skillfully evading tapped wires and detective traps, was in touch with Mrs. Ross with a demand for $100,000 for the safe return of her husband and the added stipulation that the police and federal agents be kept out of the case until after the transaction had been consummated. After several days of negotiating the abductors agreed to accept $50,000 in bills of five and ten dollar denominations.

The Christian Minister

"BRASS TACKS" ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

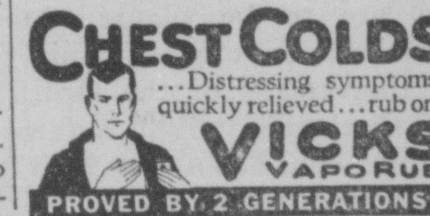

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL (The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Nov. 14 is I Timothy, 4:1-16; II Timothy, 2:1-4, the Golden Text being I Timothy, 4:14, "Neglect not the gift that is in thee.")

ST. PAUL, by every right is entitled to give advice to Timothy. On the grounds of age, it is "Paul the aged" advising the "youth"; on the grounds of experience, Paul has spent three years as pastor in Ephesus where Timothy is beginning his ministry; furthermore, Timothy is as a son to Paul spiritually, and as Professor Plummer says, "Timothy might have called himself the disciple whom Paul loved."

Minister a "Good Mixer" Some folk seem to believe that the chief requisite of a good minister is that he be "a good mixer". On the contrary, Paul seems to indicate that there are circumstances in which a good minister must be a good "separator", able to separate false teachers and false teaching from true, and to keep his people separate from the corrupt manner of life taught by such "seducing spirits". He warned Timothy concerning "the hypocrisy of men that speak lies, branded in their own conscience as with a hot iron". He said, "If thou put the brethren in mind of these things, thou shalt be a good minister of Christ Jesus, nourished in the words of faith, and of the good doctrine which thou hast followed until now."

Keeping Spiritually Fit "Exercise thyself unto godliness," Paul advised, "for bodily exercise is profitable for a little, but godliness is profitable for all things, having promise of the life which now is, and of that which is to come. Faithful is the saying, and worthy of all acceptance." Thus Paul underscores his advice that the young minister keep himself spiritually fit as athletes keep themselves physically fit. The minister must take Christ and his salvation so seriously as to strive desperately to labor zealously for spiritual excellence for himself and for his people: "To this end we, labor and strive because we have our hope set on the living God, who is the Saviour of all men, especially them that believe." The salvation of souls is serious business. Let the minister so regard it and strive for effectiveness in it.

Ministerial "Dead Line"

Evidently Paul did not consider the "ministerial dead line" an old man's peril more than a young man's peril. For he urged the youthful Timothy to make sure of his continued growth and development: "Neglect not the gift that is in thee, which was given thee by prophecy, with the laying on of the hands of the presbytery. Be diligent in these things; give thyself wholly to them; that thy progress may be manifest unto all. Take heed to thyself, and to thy teaching. Continue in these things; for in doing this thou shalt save both thyself and them that hear thee."

A Full Time Job

The peril of a minister's "going into business on the side" is that shortly he will find himself "in the minister on the side". Against this peril Paul warned Timothy:

"Suffer hardship with me, as a good soldier of Christ Jesus. No soldier on service entangleth himself in the affairs of this life; that he may please him who enrolled him as a soldier." As long as hosts of his people hug the borderline of spiritual illiteracy the minister may best devote his time to this field rather than to telling them how to vote or how to do a number of other things in which their training and experience may greatly exceed his.

HOLIDAY TURKEY TO COST ABOUT 35 CENTS POUND

National Survey Discloses Price Sliding Steadily For Valued Bird

DINNER PRICE FIGURED Value At Present Above 1936's Mark

CHICAGO, Nov. 12. —(UP)—Thanksgiving turkeys should cost no more than 33 cents a pound, ready for the oven, and before the day rolls around next week prices may drop several cents, replies to a United Press survey indicated today.

Producers in Wisconsin, Michigan and Minnesota have indicated that although prices now are one to five cents higher than in 1936, there has been a decline in the last week and before Thanksgiving day turkeys may be no higher than last year.

As for the "trimmin's," here's what national prices appear to be for 1937, about equal or very little higher than 1936 costs:

Potatoes, about two cents a pound; oysters, around 35c a pint; celery 10 to 12 cents a bunch; mince meat, around 25c a pound; cranberries, 16 cents a pound and pumpkin from three cents a pound in bulk to a straight 25 cents each for whole pumpkins. The most expensive item, other than the bird itself, will be nuts which range in price from 69 cents an assorted pound in Minneapolis to 17 cents in Kansas City, Mo. The average price was around 30 cents a pound.

Average Cost $5

On the national average the cost of a dinner for a family of five was figured around $5: New York city's family dinner will cost $8, highest in the nation.

Some family dinner prices were calculated:

| City              | Cost             |
|-------------------|------------------|
| Birmingham        | .....$4.40      |
| Springfield, Ill. | .....$4.34      |
| Albany, N. Y.     | .....$4.00      |
| Des Moines        | .....$3.85-5.07 |
| Detroit           | .....$4.50      |
| Buffalo, N. Y.    | .....$4.63      |
| San Francisco     | .....$3.25      |
| New York City     | .....$8.00      |

In Dallas, Tex., center of the southwestern "turkey belt," housewives will be able to get their gobblers at from 20 to 25 cents a pound, "dressed" for the oven.

The highest prices will be paid for birds bought in Pittsburgh, where turkeys to day were listed around 43 cents a pound. Minneapolis, Boston, and Knoxville, Tenn., housewives will pay the next highest price, around 40 cents.

In New Orleans, La., the "rational bird," will cost only 21 cents, the least expensive in the country.

Some of the prices on the national turkey price list are:

| City              | Cents per pound |
|-------------------|-----------------|
| Kansas City       | .....25         |
| New Orleans       | .....17-21      |
| Birmingham        | .....30         |
| Knoxville         | .....40         |
| Cleveland         | .....20-24      |
| New York          | .....59         |
| San Francisco     | .....27         |
| Philadelphia      | .....35-39      |
| Minneapolis       | .....30         |
| Washington, D. C. | .....37-39      |
| Chicago           | .....25-26      |
| Hartford, Conn.   | .....35         |

With the usual substitutes for turkey, chicken, ducks, or a goose, the total cost would be considerably less, in the case of New York residents, a difference of $4. Other cities reported that use of other meats would reduce the cost from a few cents to a dollar or more.

CHANGE IN WIND SAVES BIG BARN FROM STRAW FIRE

A change in the wind and efforts of Circleville firemen saved a large barn on the farm of Miss Dakota Lutz, east of Circleville, from destruction, Thursday afternoon.

G-Men Pin Hope on Ransom Money For Solution of Ross Kidnaping, Now Classified as Major Mystery

CHICAGO, Nov. 12 — Federal agents who solved the Lindbergh, Weyerhaeuser and Urschel kidnappings have been converged here to take assignments in the Charles Ross case. The abduction of the elderly retired business man has become the major mystery confronting the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Continue in these things; for in doing this thou shalt save both thyself and them that hear thee."

There is an abundance of cover this Fall and good crops of rabbits and pheasants. Obtain the permission of the farmer before you hunt on his lands. Use his gate instead of breaking down his fences. It saves his property and is safer for the hunter. Be sure you close all gates. Signs prohibiting hunting on many Pickaway county farms are the result of hunters disregarding their rights, shooting chickens and livestock for game and letting livestock walk away by failing to close gates. Hunters should have plenty of sport this season. To insure good sport and continued co-operation from the farmer, respect his rights. Farmers feed and shelter the game you shoot. It is not quite so generally agreed, however, that his victory marked him as a very outstanding presidential possibility.

Not that he isn't recognized as possessing many presidential qualities. For one thing, these skeptics ask: "Upon what ticket could the 'Little Flower' run, to get him into the White House?"

At various celebrations in Circleville I have noticed residents seemed to dislike speeches, regardless of how good they were.

TO COUNCILMEN
CITY DADS: Another holiday season is approaching and Circleville has made no further steps toward boulevard lights in the downtown district. The subject was referred to a committee. Like the bicycle regulations, revision of city codes, laws on bill passing, and numerous other important items, it has been tabled and forgotten. Circleville has progressed many ways during the last year, but its downtown district is still the darkest of any central Ohio city. I would suggest that council dust off some of the street light issue and make an effort to place Circleville on an equal with nearby cities.

RESIDENTS: A hundred seedlings of the Logan Elm are to be planted in Toledo to commemorate the city centennial and the 150th anniversary of the Ordinance of 1787. Young trees are provided and planted free of charge in parkways and yards. to him. Still, he never HAS run as an out-and-out Democrat.

That seems to foreclose a Democratic presidential nomination against him. Maybe it should not influence a Democratic nominating convention against him, but it is almost certain that it would.

Republicanism, broadly considered, is conservative, and La Guardia assuredly is to the leftward. That would bar him from a Republican nomination.

A liberal independent convention might name him as its standard bearer, but the time hasn't come when a third party ticket stands any chance of victory on election day. Consequently such a candidacy is not worth having.

HANDICAPS
La Guardia's first name (Fiorello) means, in Italian, "Little Flower".

But the mayor has taken all the sting out of that by recognizing what a ridiculous name it is for a politician—by saying, outspokenly, "Where can anyone get, in politics, with a name like that?" he has counteracted that drawback by homeopathic treatment — by emphasizing it and taking his medicine.

His Italian paternity and his Jewish maternity are not so easy to offset.

It is lamentable that such should be the case, but his ancestry probably would be cited to his disadvantage with a deal of effect among bigoted voters, as against Al Smith, in 1928.

It would be painful to have a similar contest.

UPSTATE VOTE?
La Guardia won by a landslide in New York City. But would he win by a proportionate majority for the governorship of New York state? Or would he win for the senate? It is problematic. Upstate New York is different from New York City.

And nationally?

To be sure, he is unlike most New Yorkers. The run-of-mine of them know nothing of the United States west of the Hudson river. The "Little Flower" was brought up in Arizona.

All that is in his favor.

KNOWS HIS OBJECTIVES
He differs from President Roosevelt in this: "F. D." is "feeling his way" toward desired objectives. La Guardia not only knows what his objective is; he knows how he hopes to get there.

DEWEY
There is considerable chat to the effect that Thomas E. Dewey's victory for the New York county district attorneyship hints at Dewey, rather than La Guardia for the next Democratic candidate for the governorship of New York—and subsequently the Empire State's 1940 or 1944 Democratic presidential candidate.

Maybe so.

Possibly Dewey is a presidential candidate in the background.

Physicians Know About Nature of Cancer
by LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
IT IS TOO OFTEN said that we do not know the cause of cancer, and this soon gets translated in the public mind to saying we do not know anything about the nature of cancer, or even to we do not know anything about cancer.

That is very far from the truth. The cause of cancer, in a narrow sense, we do not know about. But we can formulate some pretty good theories on the subject, and it is probable we never will get much further than we are now. But the life history and the nature of cancer we know very well. It was worked out over three-quarters of a century ago by one of the greatest medical scientists who ever lived, Rudolph Virchow.

When Virchow began to study sections of diseased tissue of all kinds, he found that they were not so very different essentially from normal tissues, at least in that all the processes were carried out by body cells.

The whole body is made up of groups of cells. As the body grows in infancy, the growth process consists simply in a multiplication of these cells. Also when an injury, such as a cut, occurs, the cells on each side of the cut multiply and fill in the space caused by tissue loss. The curious thing about the cells in growth and repair of wounds is that they multiply just enough and then stop. We do not know how they know how to do that—what influences them to begin multiplying, and what influences them to stop multiplying when they are through.

Cells Don't Stop
Sometimes a group of cells begins to multiply for no obvious reason. They do not know when to stop, so the result is a lump or tumor. The one easiest for most of us to see is a wart, which is a set of cells which have overmultiplied. These tumors may form out of any kind of tissues and are named accordingly. If one grows in fibrous tissue it is called a fibroid or a fibroma.

There is one other distinction in these tumors. If a collection of cells multiplies into a tumor but stays in one spot, and eventually stops growing, it is called an innocent tumor. If it grows continually and also shoots some of its cells out into the lymph or blood stream, so they can be carried to some distant part of the body and start a new growth, it is called malignant.

Cancers are malignant tumors growing in epithelial tissue. Therefore, the skin, the breast, the uterus and the stomach are the most frequent sites.

It should be perfectly clear that if the physician gets a cancer while it is confined to one spot, before it gets out in the blood stream, it will be a good deal easier to cure it by complete removal. The aim of all cancer treatment, therefore, is to get the case as early as possible.

PEACOCK FEATHERS

By Temple Bailey

Copyright, Released by Central Press Association

READ THIS FIRST:
Jerry, young son of a country clergyman in modest circumstances, looks back upon his first romantic episode, as a boy of 12, he had kissed a young Italian girl. A few years later, Jerry goes to Washington for a brief visit, with his wealthy uncle from Colorado. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 4
ON THE third day of my sojourn with Uncle Jerry in Washington I was disturbed by something new in him—a change. He found excuses to be away from me; sent me to a matinee alone; left me in the senate gallery for hours while he met some mysterious engagement. And that night he told me with some embarrassment that he would not come back for dinner.

"You won't mind, will you?" I didn't mind in the least. I wanted to write a long letter to my mother. I decided to take the evening for it, and found it a fascinating occupation to fill sheet after sheet of elaborately lithographed hotel paper with an account of my adventures.

When I finished, Uncle Jerry had not come. I lounged for a while in the lobby. Then I went out and walked along the lighted street. It was too late to attempt to take in a play, so I strolled up the avenue to where it turns at Fifteenth street, and came down the south side.

It was late when I passed the restaurant where Uncle Jerry and I always went for oysters. It was cold outside (have I said that it was in February?) and I was tempted by the thought of the comfort and coziness within. I climbed a long flight of steps to the upstairs dining room. I felt more at ease there with men and women than with the men alone at the downstairs counter. I was given a table far back, and ordered a milk stew.

It was not until I was seated that I saw my uncle. He was at a table by a front window and was eating steamed oysters with his air of prodigious enjoyment. Opposite him sat a woman. In front of her was the scarlet shell of a lobster, but she was not eating. She was talking in a vivacious manner and smiling. Uncle Jerry leaned forward and spoke to her, and his eyes had a warm eager look. I had never seen him quite like that, but I thought my very handsome and the lady pretty.

She had a great deal of blond hair curled in great waves, and her cheeks were very pink. Few women rouged in those days, and artificial complexions were unusual. But I did not know it was artificial, and, as I have said, I thought her pretty. Not as Theresa was pretty: she was, rather, like the girls on the billboards in front of the theater next door. She had on a silk blouse and it was trimmed with blue. There was a blue rose in her hat, and on her hands were several flashing rings.

I ate slowly, watching Uncle Jerry and the woman. I was glad that I was half-hidden by the people at the tables in front of me, and by an overhanging palm. I had a feeling that Uncle Jerry would not care to have me see him with the little blond woman.

It was while I was in Washington that a thing happened which was to color my dreams for all time to come.

Every day during our sojourn in the city we had gone up to the capitol. Uncle Jerry spent his time in committee rooms—"wire pulling", as he expressed it. There were certain things that he wanted done in his western country, and his vigorous personality was a great asset in pushing his claims.

I ate slowly, watching them both.

I haunted the galleries, leaning over the rail and listening spellbound to the thundering of the gods. It was in those fascinating days when Theodore Roosevelt was the sturdy and idealistic president of the United States. The war between him and the legislative bodies was, in some respects, a merry one. It was, indeed, at times as good a tilt as if it had been done with lances on caparisoned steeds. There was one senator from Missouri to whom the name of Roosevelt was a challenge for battle. He denounced in no uncertain terms the arbitrary methods of the chief executive. According to him, young Theodore was a menace to the liberties of the sovereign states. The danger of centralized government was the warning which his voice called.

He was a handsome man, with a crest of gray hair and a gray mustache. He wore always a frock coat and a flower in his buttonhole. The elegance of his dress and of his manner was as old-fashioned as the rather florid eloquence of his speeches. And while I resented the epithets which he hurled at my hero who sat in the White House, I was none the less aware of the charm of his elderly and picturesque vanity.

It was on the day that my dream was born that I went into the senate lunch room with my uncle. I remember he had ordered a great planked steak, and that my mind was on it and on nothing else! I was at the moment just plain, hungry boy—rather material, it must be confessed—wanting nothing better at the moment than the hearty food and the steaming coffee that came with it.

Yet in the twinkling of an eye I was transformed. Never again was I to be happy in the way I had been—satisfied to eat and drink and take the days as they came. Henceforth I was to be consumed by restless longings—vague aspirations. Moreover, I lost forever a certain complacency. For the first time I saw myself awkward, crude, a country boy. The senator from Missouri sat at a table near us. Opposite him was a girl—a girl-child indeed. She was perhaps 13. She wore one of the thin high-collared white blouses which were then fashionable, and a small black velvet hat with a peacock's feather caught up by a buckle. Her wavy russet hair was tied at the neck with a wide black ribbon.

But it was none of these things which held me; it was, rather, an effect of poise, of finesse. She kept her eyes to herself. For all her consciousness of them, there might have been no one else in the room. She was vivid, girlish, gay—holding the old man enthralled while she talked to him, using her hands expressively, delicately, so that I was aware of their loveliness—but always there was the effect of being a thousand miles away from the world about her.

Her detachment affected me strangely. I was used to country girls who were embarrassed or over-bold when out in company. But here was a girl who did not blush, who did not stare, who was as remote as a fairy princess in a tall tower.

My uncle saw my eyes upon her. "That's Mimi Le Brun," he said, "the senator's granddaughter."

"Is she French, Uncle Jerry?" "French blood, like a lot of St. Louisans. Some Irish, too, I imagine, with that hair."

He forgot her then, as someone stopped at our table to speak to him. When at last he turned to me, he said:

"Don't you want some more steak?"

"No."

"You haven't eaten much."

"I'm not hungry."

My appetite had, indeed, left me. It seemed to me that I wanted nothing else than to feed body and soul on the beauty of that child at the other table. It was to use an old-fashioned phrase, love at first sight—the capture of a boy's romantic fancy. Yet I knew nothing about her except that she was Mimi Le Brun, that she lived in St. Louis, and that her grandfather had a seat in the senate.

Brave flowers—that I could gaily

And be as little vain!
You come abroad, and make a
harmless show,
And to your beds of earth again.
You are not proud; you know your

For your embroidered garments are
from earth.
You do obey your months and
times, but I
Would have it ever Spring:
My fate would know no Winter,
never die,
Nor think of such a thing.
O that I could my bed of earth but
view
And smile, and look as cheerfully
as you!

But rather to take truce!
How often have I seen you at a

And there look fresh and spruce!
You fragrant flowers! then teach

Like yours may sweeten and per-

For one thing, these skeptics ask: "Upon what ticket could the 'Little Flower' run, to get him into the White House?"

In the main La Guardia has done his campaigning as a Republican. But he has campaigned also as a Socialist. As an independent likewise. And as a Fusionist. I have no doubt that he would be willing to do as a Democrat. Labels signify nothing to him. Still, he never HAS run as an out-and-out Democrat.

That seems to foreclose a Democratic presidential nomination against him. Maybe it should not influence a Democratic nominating convention against him, but it is almost certain that it would.

Republicanism, broadly considered, is conservative, and La Guardia assuredly is to the leftward. That would bar him from a Republican nomination.

A liberal independent convention might name him as its standard bearer, but the time hasn't come when a third party ticket stands any chance of victory on election day. Consequently such a candidacy is not worth having.

HANDICAPS

La Guardia's first name (Fiorello) means, in Italian, "Little Flower."

But the mayor has taken all the sting out of that by recognizing what a ridiculous name it is for a politician—by saying, outspokenly, "Where can anyone get, in politics, with a name like that?" he has counteracted that drawback by homeopathic treatment — by emphasizing it and taking his medicine.

His Italian paternity and his Jewish maternity are not so easy to offset.

It is lamentable that such should be the case, but his ancestry probably would be cited to his disadvantage with a deal of effect among bigoted voters, as against Al Smith, in 1928.

It would be painful to have a similar contest.

UPSTATE VOTE?

La Guardia won by a landslide in New York City. But would he win by a proportionate majority for the governorship of New York state? Or would he win for the senate? It is problematic. Upstate New York is different from New York City.

And nationally?

To be sure, he is unlike most New Yorkers. The run-of-mine of them know nothing of the United States west of the Hudson river. The "Little Flower" was brought up in Arizona.

All that is in his favor.

KNOWS HIS OBJECTIVES

He differs from President Roosevelt in this: "F. D." is "feeling his way" toward desired objectives. La Guardia not only knows what his objective is; he knows how he hopes to get there.

DEWEY

There is considerable chat to the effect that Thomas E. Dewey's victory for the New York county district attorneyship hints at Dewey, rather than La Guardia, for the next Democratic candidate for the governorship of New York—and subsequently the Empire State's 1940 or 1944 Democratic presidential candidate.

Maybe so.

Possibly Dewey is a presidential candidate in the background.

Physicians Know About Nature of Cancer

by LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IT IS TOO OFTEN said that we do not know the cause of cancer, and this soon gets translated in the public mind to saying we do not know anything about the nature of cancer, or even to we do not know anything about cancer.

That is very far from the truth. The cause of cancer, in a narrow sense, we do not know about. But we can formulate some pretty good theories on the subject, and it is probable we never will get much further than we are now. But the life history and the nature of cancer we know very well. It was worked out over three-quarters of a century ago by one of the greatest medical scientists who ever lived, Rudolph Virchow.

When Virchow began to study sections of diseased tissue of all kinds, he found that they were not so very different essentially from normal tissues, at least in that all the processes were carried out by body cells.

The whole body is made up of groups of cells. As the body grows in infancy, the growth process consists simply in a multiplication of these cells. Also when an injury, such as a cut, occurs, the cells on each side of the cut multiply and fill in the space caused by tissue loss. The curious thing about the cells in growth and repair of wounds is that they multiply just enough and then stop. We do not know how they know how to do that—what influences them to begin multiplying, and what influences them to stop multiplying when they are through.

Cells Don't Stop

Sometimes a group of cells begins to multiply for no obvious reason. They do not know when to stop, so the result is a lump or tumor. The one easiest for most of us to see is a wart, which is a set of cells which have overmultiplied. These tumors may form out of any kind of tissues and are named accordingly. If one grows in fibrous tissue it is called a fibroid or a fibroma.

There is one other distinction in these tumors. If a collection of cells multiplies into a tumor but stays in one spot, and eventually stops growing, it is called an innocent tumor. If it grows continually and also shoots some of its cells out into the lymph or blood stream, so they can be carried to some distant part of the body and start a new growth, it is called malignant. Cancers are malignant tumors growing in epithelial tissue. Therefore, the skin, the breast, the uterus and the stomach are the most frequent sites.

It should be perfectly clear that if the physician gets a cancer while it is confined to one spot, before it gets out in the blood stream, it will be a good deal easier to cure it by complete removal. The aim of all cancer treatment, therefore, is to get the case as early as possible.

PEACOCK FEATHERS

By Temple Bailey

COPYRIGHT, RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

READ THIS FIRST:
Jerry, young son of a country clergyman in modest circumstances, looks back upon his first romantic episode. As a boy of 12, he had kissed a young Italian girl. A few years later, Jerry goes to Washington for a brief visit with his wealthy uncle from Colorado. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

CHAPTER 4

ON THE third day of my sojourn with Uncle Jerry in Washington I was disturbed by something new in him—a change. He found excuses to be away from me; sent me to a matinee alone; left me in the senate gallery for hours while he met some mysterious engagement. And that night he told me with some embarrassment that he would not come back for dinner.

"You won't mind, will you?" I didn't mind in the least. I wanted to write a long letter to my mother. I decided to take the evening for it, and found it a fascinating occupation to fill sheet after sheet of elaborately lithographed hotel paper with an account of my adventures.

When I finished, Uncle Jerry had not come. I lounged for a while in the lobby. Then I went out and walked along the lighted street. It was too late to attempt to take in a play, so I strolled up the avenue to where it turns at Fifteenth street, and came down the south side.

It was late when I passed the restaurant where Uncle Jerry and I always went for oysters. It was cold outside (have I said that it was in February?) and I was tempted by the thought of the comfort and coziness within. I climbed a long flight of steps to the upstairs dining room. I felt more at ease there with men and women than with the men alone at the downstairs counter. I was given a table far back, and ordered a milk stew.

It was not until I was seated that I saw my uncle. He was at a table by a front window and was eating steamed oysters with his air of prodigious enjoyment. Opposite him sat a woman. In front of her was the scarlet shell of a lobster, but she was not eating. She was talking in a vivacious manner and smiling. Uncle Jerry leaned forward and spoke to her, and his eyes had a warm eager look. I had never seen him quite like that, but I thought him very handsome and the lady pretty.

She had a great deal of blond hair curled across her forehead, and her cheeks were very pink. Few women rugged in those days, and artificial complexions were unusual. But I did not know it was artificial, and as I have said, I thought her pretty. Not as Theresa was pretty; she was, rather, like the girls on the billboards in front of the theater next door. She had on a silk blouse and it was trimmed with blue. There was a blue rose in her hat, and on her hands were several flashing rings.

I ate slowly, watching Uncle Jerry and the woman. I was glad that I was half-hidden by the people at the tables in front of me, and by an overhanging palm. I had a feeling that Uncle Jerry would not care to have me see him with the little blond woman. It was while I was in Washington that a thing happened which was to color my dreams for all time to come.

Every day during our sojourn in the city we had gone up to the capitol. Uncle Jerry spent his time in committee rooms—"wire pulling", as he expressed it. There were certain things that he wanted done in his western country, and his vigorous personality was a great asset in pushing his claims.

I ate slowly, watching them both.

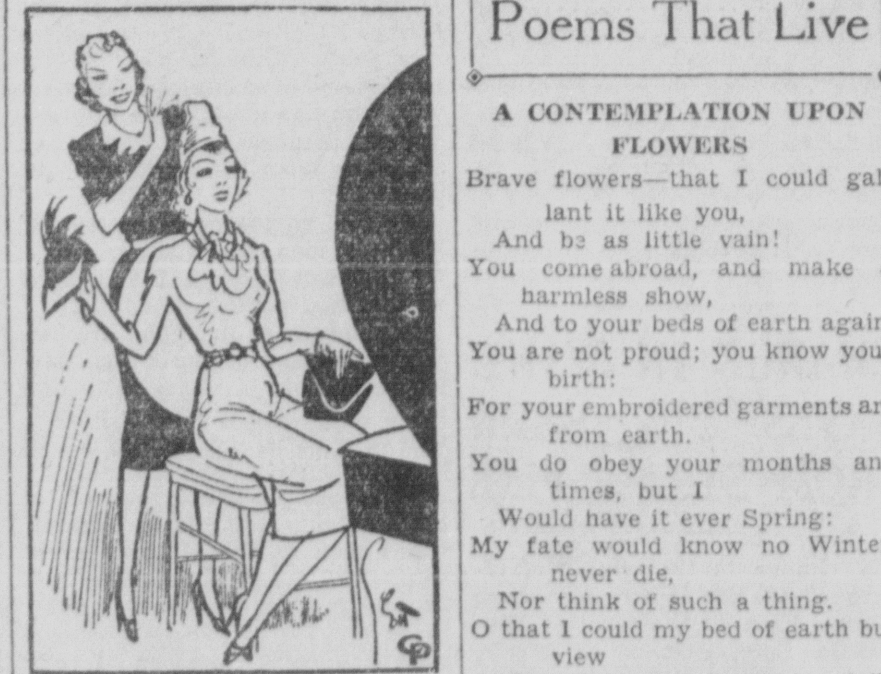

I haunted the galleries, leaning over the rail and listening spell-bound to the thundering of the gods. It was in those fascinating days when Theodore Roosevelt was the sturdy and idealistic president of the United States. The war between him and the legislative bodies was, in some respects, a merry one. It was, indeed, at times as good a tilt as if it had been done with lances on caparisoned steeds. There was one senator from Missouri to whom the name of Roosevelt was a challenge for battle. He denounced in no uncertain terms the arbitrary methods of the chief executive. According to him, young Theodore was a menace to the liberties of the sovereign states. The danger of centralized government was the warning which his voice told.

He was a handsome man, with a crest of gray hair and a gray mustache. He wore always a frock coat and a flower in his buttonhole. The elegance of his dress and of his manner was as old-fashioned as the rather florid eloquence of his speeches. And while I resented the epithets which he hurled at my hero who sat in the White House, I was none the less aware of the charm of his elderly and picturesque enemy.

It was on the day that my dream was born that I went into the senate lunch room with my uncle. I remember he had ordered a great planked steak, and that my mind was on it and on nothing else! I was at the moment just plain, hungry boy—rather material, it must be confessed—wanting nothing better at the moment than the hearty food and the steaming coffee that came with it.

Yet in the twinkling of an eye I was transformed. Never again was I to be happy in the way I had been—satisfied to eat and drink and take the days as they came. Henceforth I was to be consumed by restless longings—vague aspirations. Moreover, I lost forever a certain complacency. For the first time I saw myself awkward, crude, a country boy. The senator from Missouri sat at a table near us. Opposite him

Dinner Stories

He Did Benefit!

A woman who had given a dinner party met her doctor in the street the following day.

"I am sorry, doctor," she said, "that you were unable to come to my dinner party last night. It would have done you good to be there."

"It has already done me good," the medic replied, tersely. "I've just prescribed for three of your guests."

A high school girl, seated next to a famous astronomer at a dinner party, struck up a conversation with him by asking, "What do you do for a living?"

He replied, "I study astronomy."

"Dear me," said the girl, "I finished astronomy last year."

Poems That Live

A CONTEMPLATION UPON FLOWERS

Brave flowers—that I could gaily
lant it like you,
And be as little vain!
You come abroad, and make a
harmless show,
And to your beds of earth again.
You are not proud; you know your birth:
For your embroidered garments are
from earth.
You do obey your months and
times, but I
Would have it ever Spring:
My fate would know no Winter,
never die,
Nor think of such a thing.
O that I could my bed of earth but
view
And smile, and look as cheerfully
as you!
O teach me to see Death and not to fear,
But rather to take truce!
How often have I seen you at a bier,
And there look fresh and spruce!
You fragrant flowers! then teach
me, that my breath
Like yours may sweeten and perfume my death.

—Henry King.

STUPIDITY STREET

I saw with open eyes
Singing birds sweet
Sold in the shops
For the people to eat,
Sold in the shops of Stupidity Street.

I saw in vision
The worm in the wheat
And in the shops nothing
For people to eat;
Nothing for sale in Stupidity Street.

—Ralph Hodgson.

U. S. TO PROTEST IF JAPS GOVERN FOREIGN REGION

Gen. Matsui Implies That
Tokyo Must Be Given
Co-operation

RIGHTS, INTERESTS CITED
Censorship Of Cables and
Wires May Be Tried

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(UP)—The United States government will join other nations in a vigorous protest if Japan attempts to carry out an implied threat to dominate Shanghai's international settlement, it was reported privately today.

Although the state department declined comment, it was known that officials were not a little perturbed over the remarks of Gen. Iwane Matsui, commander of the Japanese forces at Shanghai, he declared that he will "take steps" if officials of foreign governments and the municipal council of the international settlement failed to "cooperate" in the Japanese occupation of Shanghai.

Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles said that there would be no comment, at least until the state department had received official reports on Matsui's remarks. The state department, he said, has received no complaints of non-cooperation as inferred by Matsui.

Bombing Recalled
Matsui's reported statements that the various powers must protect their own rights and interests—that he was unable to accept the responsibility—recalled the situation in Nanking in September. Then the Japanese bombed the city and warned all foreigners to flee because it would be necessary to bomb it again as the capital was "the base for China's military opposition."

The incident, which resulted in U. S. Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson, moving his staff to an American gunboat in the river brought a formal note from the state department which reflected the attitude the government was believed still to maintain. It said: "The American government objects both to such jeopardizing of the lives of its nationals and non-combatants generally and to suggestions that its officials and nationals . . . should withdraw from areas where they are lawfully carrying on their legitimate activities."

It appeared certain that the United States will take decisive steps should Japan seek to control the settlement or impose a censorship of cables and mails. Since the outbreak of hostilities this government has repeatedly pointed out to China and Japan the inviolability of the American concession in the international settlement.

The settlement contains the interests of 12 nations and the chief business buildings and homes of 30,000 foreign nationals. The American concession is the hub from which radiates most of this country's Oriental commerce.

Armies Maintained
Under the treaty which guarantees the settlement against invasion, each nation maintains a small army to guard its property and nationals.

STATE UNIVERSITY TO STUDY RADIO FOR SCHOOL USES

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12—(UP)—A two-year study of radio broadcasts for schools will be undertaken at Ohio State university with a $69,000 grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, it was announced today.

The evaluation of educational programs will be one of a series of studies sponsored by the Federal Radio Education Committee, an organization of 20 broadcasters and educators appointed by the Federal Communications Commission.

Evaluation of broadcasts will be undertaken in three general fields: social studies, science and arts (English and music.)

The survey will operate through four experimental centers; The New York area, California area, Chicago area and the Cleveland area. In each of these areas, rural and city teachers will be invited to sit in conference with broadcasters frequently.

Although radio broadcasts for school use have been on the air for several years, it was felt that their effectiveness is hindered by the lack of evidence as to what children may be expected to gain from such broadcasts.

FOREST FIRES FEARED
SALEM, Ore. (UP)—Oregon forests will remain closed longer than usual this season because of the high fire hazard, state forestry officials have announced.

County Schools Prepare For Festival of Music

By S. D. FRIDLEY
Phone Ashville 79

Practically all schools of the county sent representatives to Ashville on Wednesday to practice for the County Music Festival which will be held in Ashville on Thursday night, December 9. Mr. Brobst, Ashville instrumental instructor, is directing the all-county orchestra. The music teacher at Williamsport directs the all-county chorus, and Prof. Morrison of Capital University and the Pickaway township staff has charge of the all-county band. The next practice session for these groups will be Monday, Nov. 29, at Ashville. Ashville school officials have given heed to popular demand and arranged to offer reserved seats to adult season ticket holders.

Ashville New Butter Cutter

Just happened in at the right time Thursday to see the Scioto Dairies Creamery people going at full speed trying out for the first time their new Doering butter cutter. It is an automatic machine that receives bulk butter and converts it into pounds, half pounds and quarters. This is then wrapped in a light weight tissue paper and placed into cartons ready for the retail market.

Asked Mr. Shafer, the man who hands out the last word about everything about the place, if there was a market for the butter they were producing and he told us there was no difficulty disposing of good butter.

"All the farms of the Ashville community can double the number of cows they now have and we'll be glad to take all the milk and cream they can produce," he said in similar words.

The butter cutter we mentioned has a capacity of 500 pounds the hour.

Ashville Bowling Alleys Busy

The bowling alleys are now sailing under "full steam ahead." The Cooper Oils defeated the Krogers last night and Monday night the Marcy Wild Cats are to play the winners. The high point scorers for this week, so far, are Mrs. Harry Sark for the ladies and Lyman Hickle for the men. This Friday night at the high school auditorium, two basketball games will be played. The Ashville high school girls team against the Alumni girls' team. And the boys' high team against Atlanta boys' team.

Ashville Another Corn Mark

Met an implement dealer yesterday who sells "the best kind" and he told me about a farmer down on the Florence Chapel pike who "figgers it out" that he will have 12,000 bushels of perfectly good corn raised this year. We thought Ed. Ruff had a lot with his seven or eight thousand bushels, but this farmer, Charles Pugsley, may have Ed. beat for a lot of acres but in yield per acre and low cost of production Ruff has a record hard to beat.

This Florence Chapel farmer has just fitted himself out with the "best kind" new tractor and plows and will start in now soon getting his 225-acre corn patch ready for another bumper crop for next year. But the pesky old weather man will have a lot to say just how bumper it will be. This same

Nobel Prize Winner

FOR his discoveries on the biological processes of combustion, especially in relation to vitamins A and C. Prof. Albert Szent-Gyorgyi, Hungarian medical research worker, has been awarded the 1937 Nobel prize for medicine. Prof. Szent-Gyorgyi's award approximates $40,000.

Implement man said he was not so sure about the success of this "new way" of wheat sowing.

Ashville Paddle in Use

The Rutters of Adelphi, Dad and Mom and the two kiddies, Roy, 9, and Leonie, 7, we came across in at Tom's yesterday and of course they got the "third degree" and especially the 9-year-old who has a lot of fun going to school in the third grade at his home town. Acknowledged that his teacher (a lady) had in stock one of those nice, soft paddles that don't hurt much and that he had "examined" it only once. But he's to report to us the very next time she "lays it on" and we'll have her "fired." "Cause teachers don't dare touch kids now days," "the mean old thing." But we feel almost sure we weren't getting across with the stuff we were giving him and thinks he'll play safe and keep away from that soft paddle his teacher keeps handy.

From description of Scanlon's "lung," it apparently is similar to a Swedish chest respirator that was tried successfully here recently, Snite said.

"Neither Fred nor I can get excited about it until it has been tried out, because we receive calls and letters about things like that every day," he said.

U. S. TO PROTEST IF JAPS GOVERN FOREIGN REGION

Gen. Matsui Implies That
Tokyo Must Be Given
Co-operation

RIGHTS, INTERESTS CITED

Censorship Of Cables and
Wires May Be Tried

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—(UP)

The United States government will join other nations in a vigorous protest if Japan attempts to carry out an implied threat to dominate Shanghai's international settlement, it was reported privately today.

Although the state department declined comment, it was known that officials were not a little perturbed over the remarks of Gen. Iwane Matsui, commander of the Japanese forces at Shanghai, he declared that he will "take steps" if officials of foreign governments and the municipal council of the international settlement failed to "cooperate" in the Japanese occupation of Shanghai.

Acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles said that there would be no comment, at least until the state department had received official reports on Matsui's remarks. The state department, he said, has received no complaints of non-cooperation as inferred by Matsui.

Bombing Recalled
Matsui's reported statements that the various powers must protect their own rights and interests—that he was unable to accept the responsibility—recalled the situation in Nanking in September. Then the Japanese bombed the city and warned all foreigners to flee because it would be necessary to bomb it again as the capital was "the base for China's military opposition."

The incident, which resulted in U. S. Ambassador Nelson T. Johnson, moving his staff to an American gunboat in the river brought a formal note from the state department which reflected the attitude the government was believed still to maintain. It said: "The American government objects both to such jeopardizing of the lives of its nationals and non-combatants generally and to suggestions that its officials and nationals . . . should withdraw from areas where they are lawfully carrying on their legitimate activities."

It appeared certain that the United States will take decisive steps should Japan seek to control the settlement or impose a censorship of cables and mails. Since the outbreak of hostilities this government has repeatedly pointed out to China and Japan the inviolability of the American concession in the international settlement.

The settlement contains the interests of 12 nations and the chief business buildings and homes of 30,000 foreign nationals. The American concession is the hub from which radiates most of this country's Oriental commerce.

Armies Maintained
Under the treaty which guarantees the settlement against invasion, each nation maintains a small army to guard its property and nationals.

STATE UNIVERSITY TO STUDY RADIO FOR SCHOOL USES

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12—(UP)—A two-year study of radio broadcasts for schools will be undertaken at Ohio State university with a $69,000 grant from the Rockefeller Foundation, it was announced today.

The evaluation of educational programs will be one of a series of studies sponsored by the Federal Radio Education Committee, an organization of 20 broadcasters and educators appointed by the Federal Communications Commission.

Evaluation of broadcasts will be undertaken in three general fields; social studies, science and arts (English and music.)

The survey will operate through four experimental centers; The New York area, California area, Chicago area and the Cleveland area. In each of these areas, rural and city teachers will be invited to sit in conference with broadcasters frequently.

Although radio broadcasts for school use have been on the air for several years, it was felt that their effectiveness is hindered by the lack of evidence as to what children may be expected to gain from such broadcasts.

FOREST FIRES FEARED
SALEM, Ore. (UP)—Oregon forests will remain closed longer than usual this season because of the high fire hazard, state forestry officials have announced.

New Butter Cutter

Just happened in at the right time Thursday to see the Scioto Dairies Creamery people going at full speed trying out for the first time their new Doering butter cutter. It is an automatic machine that receives bulk butter and converts it into pounds, half pounds and quarters. This is then wrapped in a light weight tissue paper and placed into cartons ready for the retail market.

Asked Mr. Shafer, the man who hands out the last word about everything about the place, if there was a market for the butter they were producing and he told us there was no difficulty disposing of good butter.

"All the farms of the Ashville community can double the number of cows they now have and we'll be glad to take all the milk and cream they can produce," he said in similar words.

The butter cutter we mentioned has a capacity of 500 pounds the hour.

Bowling Alleys Busy

The bowling alleys are now sailing under "full steam ahead." The Cooper Oils defeated the Krogers last night and Monday night the Marcy Wild Cats are to play the winners. The high point scorers for this week, so far, are Mrs. Harry Sark for the ladies and Lyman Hickie for the men. This Friday night at the high school auditorium, two basketball games will be played. The Ashville high school girls team against the Alumni girls' team. And the boys' high team against Atlanta boys' team.

Another Corn Mark

Met an implement dealer yesterday who sells "the best kind" and he told me about a farmer down on the Florence Chapel pike who "figgers it out" that he will have 12,000 bushels of perfectly good corn raised this year. We thought Ed. Ruff had a lot with his seven or eight thousand bushels, but this farmer, Charles Pugsley, may have Ed. beat for a lot of acres but in yield per acre and low cost of production Ruff has a record hard to beat.

This Florence Chapel farmer has just fitted himself out with the "best kind" new tractor and plows and will start in now soon getting his 225-acre corn patch ready for another bumper crop for next year. But the pesky old weather man will have a lot to say just how bumper it will be. This same

Paddle In Use

The Rutters of Adelphi, Dad and Mom and the two kiddies, Roy, 9, and Leonie, 7, we came across in at Tom's yesterday and of course they got the "third degree" and especially the 9-year-old who has a lot of fun going to school in the third grade at his home town.

Acknowledged that his teacher (a lady) had in stock one of those nice, soft paddles that don't hurt much and that he had "examined" it only once. But he's to report to us the very next time she "lays it on" and we'll have her "fired."

But we feel almost sure we weren't getting across with the stuff we were giving him and keep away from that soft paddle his teacher keeps handy.

NEW LIGHTWEIGHT RESPIRATOR MAY AID FRED SNITE

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Nov. 12 — (UP) — Fred B. Snite, Sr., father of the infantile paralysis victim who has been encased in a life-giving "iron lung" for 19 months, said today that Dennis Scanlon of Akron, O., would come here early next week to test a new lightweight respirator.

From description of Scanlon's "lung," it apparently is similar to a Swedish chest respirator that was tried successfully here recently, Snite said.

"Neither Fred nor I can get excited about it until it has been tried out, because we receive calls and letters about things like that every day," he said.

LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIPS AT STAKE AS OHIO COLLEGE TEAMS PLAY

ALL-AMERICAN CANDIDATE

ALTHOUGH Corbett Davis, Indiana fullback, didn't play during the 1936 campaign because of injuries, midwest fans rated him one of the outstanding backs in the conference. And his play this year proves it. Corby, a 200-pound plunger, is a topnotch blocker. He kicks and passes with the best in the conference.

MIAMI TO MEET DAYTON, STRONG BUCKEYE TEAM

Ohio University Goes East To Meet Rutgers Crew At New Brunswick

WESLEYAN VS. RESERVE

Wooster and Denison Game To Be Highlight

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12 — (UP)—The battle for league championships in tightly contested Buckeye and Ohio conference races feature tomorrow's state collegiate grid-iron program of 20 games.

Two title-bearing games are scheduled in the Buckeye and six that will have an effect on the standings will be played in the Ohio conference.

The headline contest in the Buckeye is that between Miami and the University of Dayton at Dayton. Dayton now leads the conference with three victories and no defeats. Miami is in fourth place with one triumph and two losses.

Dayton, beaten only once in eight games this season, was the slight favorite over Miami. However, the Redskins figured to be in the game all the way. Miami showed great improvement over earlier play last week when it buried Ohio Wesleyan by a 32 to 0 count.

The other Buckeye games is between the second place Marshall team and the University of Cincinnati at Cincinnati.

Marshall rated the top-heavy choice over the Beareats. Cincinnati has not won a game this season.

If both Dayton and Marshall win tomorrow, the Buckeye title will be decided when they meet Nov. 20 at Dayton.

The other two members of the Buckeye play non-league foes. Ohio University plays its first game in the East since 1932 when it tackled Rutgers at New Brunswick, N. J. and Ohio Wesleyan tangles with Western Reserve at Cleveland.

The outstanding Ohio conference game will be played at Granville when Wooster and Denison meet. Each team has four league triumphs to its credit. Only a scoreless tie mars Denison's record, while Wooster has been beaten twice.

A victory for Denison tomorrow would put the team in an ideal position to make a strong title claim. It has but one more conference game remaining, that with Oberlin.

Ohio Northern, also unbeaten but with three ties on its record, faces Mount Union at Alliance in another feature game.

Other league contests send Kenyon against Wittenberg at Springfield; Marietta against Muskingum at New Concord; and Capital against Otterbein at Westerville.

Outside conference ranks the top game is at Morgantown, W. Va., where Dr. C. W. Spears pits his rapidly improving University of Toledo eleven against West Virginia university.

Toledo gained a place among the state's strongest teams last week when it downed Dayton. West Virginia has beaten West Virginia Wesleyan, Xavier, Washington and Lee, Waynesburg and Western Maryland and played a tie with Georgetown University.

Other games involving Ohio teams are:

Xavier vs. Baldwin-Wallace at Berea; Hiram vs. Detroit Tech at Detroit; Assumption vs. Bluffton at Bluffton; Illinois Wesleyan vs. Akron at Akron; Wilberforce vs. Bluefield Teachers at Bluefield, W. Va.; Holbrook vs. Transylvania at Lexington, Ky.; Defiance vs. Findlay at Findlay; and John Carroll vs. St. Benedicts at Chicago.

Kent State and Bowling Green triumphed in Ohio conference games played yesterday.

Kent State defeated Ashland 14 to 0 in the concluding game of its season. The victory gave Kent State a record for the year of three triumphs, four losses and a tie.

The game between Defiance and Findlay, originally scheduled yesterday, will be played Saturday.

Saturday's Illinois Tilt Buckeyes' Homecoming

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12—In the mid-west's outstanding football fare Ohio State and Illinois clash at Ohio stadium Saturday. Added to the colorful background of this traditionally great game will be the pageantry of Ohio State's annual homecoming.

Coincident with the fact that this is Coach Robert Zuppke's silver anniversary as the head of Illini football, this year marks the twenty-fifth season since Ohio State's entry in the Western Conference.

In the long series with Illinois, the Bucks are one down to their rivals in total victories. To date the figures show that Illinois has won 12, Ohio State 11, and two games have resulted in ties. Although the ticket sale for Saturday's game has been moving briskly there are still plenty of good seats available. It will be the last home game of 1937 for the Scarlet and Gray.

Fresh from their great victory over Northwestern, the men of Illinois present an impressive season record including a scoreless tie against Notre Dame. Here are the records of both Bucks and Illinois to date:

INSPIRED GOPHER TEAM TO BATTLE CRIPPLED 'CATS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 12 — (UP)—Minnesota is inspired, Northwestern is crippled, but 64,000 fans will jam memorial stadium Saturday fearful that the defending Big Ten champions may repeat their stunning victory of 1936 and throw the conference campaign into a four team race.

There is good reason to fear Northwestern. Although the Wildcats are more of an underdog this week than they were last October when they tumbled Minnesota at the crest of a 21-game winning streak their Gopher series is packed with upsets.

Minnesota must sweep its remaining games with Northwestern and Wisconsin to claim an undisputed title. If they lose to either one, Indiana, Ohio State or Wisconsin have an outside chance of stepping in for at least a share of the crown. Ohio State can win it outright.

All three contenders will push their title cause Saturday. Ohio State, which plays one more conference game than the others, battles stubborn Illinois at Columbus, Indiana travels to Iowa and Purdue meets Wisconsin at Madison.

Outside the league, Michigan invades the East to meet Pennsylvania and Beloit college steps into faster company for a game at Chicago.

Minnesota's great advantage over Northwestern extends into every department of play. In Harold Van Every, Bernie Bierman has brought along a dangerous forward passer who can run and block as well. The Gophers are well-stocked with reserves while Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern will have difficulty finding enough unbandaged men to keep firing into the game. Waldorf said Guard Mike Calvano and Center Erwin Wegner definitely would not play. Five others were doubtful.

CHILlicoTHEANS BEATEN 14 TO 7 BY MARIETTA 11

MARIETTA, Nov. 11—Marietta High School's football team won a hard-fought game here Thursday from Chillicothe high, 14 to 7, before a crowd of 3,500 fans.

GROVE CITY 11 SEEKS VICTORY IN NIGHT GAME

Trego, Invading Coach, Has Watched Tigers Play Several Foes

LINEUP ABOUT CERTAIN

Signal-Calling Job Has Mentor In Doubt

A large crowd is expected to witness the high school-Grove City grid contest tonight at 8 o'clock. The game will be the last of the home season for the Tigers, the Urbana contest next week ending play.

Grove City is bringing a light, but speedy outfit to Circleville and its coach, Red Trego, former Capital athlete, is expecting to win. Trego has seen the Tigers perform several times.

The record of the Grovers is fair. They have lost several games, but have put up real battles in all their defeats. If the Red and Black Tigers are to win they will have to fight.

The Tigers will go into the game in fair condition, but without the services of Quarterback Paul Walters who cracked a shoulder bone at Logan last week. Coach Jack Landrum is not certain who will be at the signal-barking post although he has been using Junior Martin, regular center, at the job most of the time.

No material changes are planned in the lineup except that Jim Price will take over the center job if Martin goes to the backfield. If Price does not get the nod, then it will go to Dub Nelson.

Bob Fickardt, whose nose was flattened in a scrimmage last week, will start at the right wing if it is at all possible for him to play. Dave Jackson will be at the other; Rooney and Bob Liston will start at tackles, Gene Arledge and Earl Garner at the guards. Other backs will be Martin Walters and the two freshmen, Frank Woodward and Marvin Jenkins.

Zuppke Claims His Gridders Get Along All Right In Life

By BOB ZUPPKE
As told to Bill Braucher
QUESTION—Zup, how about the relative success of college football players in life as contrasted with other graduates.
ZUPPKE—Get this to start with: success is a broad term. I take it you are talking about material success. What you mean is: what kind of bread-winners, providers for the family, are the football men? That's worth discussing for the first duty of anyone is to win bread for himself and dependents. Life is not only a struggle for existence but for respect. My observation is that the football men are above the average as providers and that they have the respect of their fellows. Their training is valuable. They may receive exaggerated praise but they are fortunate that this experience comes early and they get over it quickly. Football, like life, is a stern master. In both you must work hard and show ability to get anywhere.

Illini Doing All Right
QUESTION—Can you mention a few old-time Illini stars who stand out for their success?
ZUPPKE—It's an injustice to mention a few men with others who deserve it equally. Offhand I think of Ralph Chapman, captain of our 1914 championship team and a Camp All-American, a leading investment broker in Chicago; Bob Fletcher, whose placekick beat Ohio State in 1919, a big guy with the Ohio Oil Co.; Milt Olander, formerly my assistant, director of personnel for the Owens-Illinois Glass company; Charley Moynihan, one of the leading lawyers in Colorado; Judge Clyde Stone of the Illinois supreme court—I could rattle 'em off but these give you a hint. Fred Healy, vice president of the Curtis Publishing company, was a sub quarter-back at Illinois.

Many Are Coaching
Many Illinois graduates are engaged in coaching and physical education and I consider that they are just as successful in the real meaning of life as the man who accumulates more money. Men like Patsy Clark, Red Grange, George Halas, Don Peden, Burt Ingwersen, Bunny Oakes, Doug Fessenden, to name only a few of our old-timers who are coaching, are successes.

After all, success in life means making the grade in the field for which you are adapted. The football man has learned a necessary lesson earlier than many of his college-mates; to put everything he has into his job—and most of the boys never forget this.

OHIO U. BOBCATS TO MEET ILLINI ON GRID IN 1938

ATHENS, Nov. 12—Ohio university will meet Illinois in the opening tilt on the Illini grid schedule next year. This meeting of the two teams will mark the third contest of the present series. The Bobcats took a 6-0 decision in the '35 tilt and the Illini came back with a 20-6 win this season. The 1938 game will be played at Champaign.

LEAGUE CHAMPIONSHIPS AT STAKE AS OHIO COLLEGE TEAMS PLAY

ALL-AMERICAN
CANDIDATE

ALTHOUGH Corbett Davis, Indiana fullback, didn't play during the 1936 campaign because of injuries, midwest fans rated him one of the outstanding backs in the conference. And his play this year proves it. Corby, a 200-pound plunger, is a topnotch blocker. He kicks and passes with the best in the conference.

About This
And That
In Many Sports

CAGE SEASON OPENS

Basketball in all its glory is in the air, even though a couple of weeks remain in all football schedules. . . . Tonight marks the opening of the annual Pickaway county championship race with The Daily Herald trophies at stake. . . . Five loop encounters are scheduled with Salt Creek and Darby postponing their meeting until Dec. 1 because of the fair at the former school. . . . Pickaway takes on its alumni. . . . Other contests include New Holland at Williamsport, Monroe at Walnut, Scioto at Muhlenberg, Perry at Ashville, and Jackson at Washington. . . .

HOW ABOUT TIGERS?

All of which brings up the question: What will Circleville have on the cage court? . . . Prospects are not so bright and neither are they so dull. . . . Coach Jack Landrum's lads will be rangy, but whether they know the cage game the way it should be known is another question. . . . However, last year's record will certainly be surpassed, Jackson township school being the only team to fall before the Tigers. . . . Faculty Manager Virgil Cress is working on a schedule, but has not yet come through with date announcements. . . .

BUCKS OUGHT TO WIN

There will be more than a few Circleville grid fans in the Ohio stadium horseshoe tomorrow afternoon watching the Bucks and the fighting Illini in action. . . . Since the Ohio defeat by Indiana last week there are a good many persons who believe Illinois will gain the top score. . . . That is entirely possible, but it is not likely. . . . Superior man-power should win for Ohio. . . .

THREE MAJOR GAMES

The big games in the country are Notre Dame vs. Army, Pitt vs. Nebraska, and Minnesota vs. Northwestern with ye janitor choosing the first named in each instance. . . . The three games give a lot of promise, and will certainly demand their share of time on the radio. . . .

WESLEYAN VS. RESERVE

Wooster and Denison Game
To Be Highlight

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12 — (UP)—The battle for league championships in tightly contested Buckeye and Ohio conference races feature tomorrow's state collegiate gridiron program of 20 games.

Two title-bearing games are scheduled in the Buckeye and six that will have an effect on the standings will be played in the Ohio conference.

The headline contest in the Buckeye is that between Miami and the University of Dayton at Dayton. Dayton now leads the conference with three victories and no defeats. Miami is in fourth place with one triumph and four losses.

Dayton, beaten only once in eight games this season, was the slight favorite over Miami. However, the Redskins figured to be in the game all the way. Miami showed great improvement over earlier play last week when it buried Ohio Wesleyan by a 32 to 0 count.

The other Buckeye games is between the second place Marshall team and the University of Cincinnati at Cincinnati.

Marshall rated the top-heavy choice over the Bearcats. Cincinnati has not won a game this season.

If both Dayton and Marshall win tomorrow, the Buckeye title will be decided when they meet Nov. 20 at Dayton.

The other two members of the Buckeye play non-league foes. Ohio University plays its first game in the East since 1932 when it tackled Rutgers at New Brunswick, N. J., and Ohio Wesleyan tangles with Western Reserve at Cleveland.

The outstanding Ohio conference game will be played at Granville when Wooster and Denison meet. Each team has four league triumphs to its credit. Only a scoreless tie mars Wooster's record, while Wooster has been beaten twice.

A victory for Denison tomorrow would put the team in an ideal position to make a strong title claim. It has but one more conference game remaining, that with Oberlin.

Ohio Northern, also unbeaten but with three ties on its record, faces Mount Union at Alliance in another feature game.

Other league contests send Kenyon against Wittenberg at Springfield; Marietta against Muskingum at New Concord; and Capital against Otterbein at Westerville.

Outside conference ranks the top game is at Morgantown, W. Va., where Dr. C. W. Spears pits his rapidly improving University of Toledo eleven against West Virginia university.

Toledo gained a place among the state's strongest teams last week when it downed Dayton. West Virginia has beaten West Virginia Wesleyan, Xavier, Washington and Lee, Wayneburg and Western Maryland and played a tie with Georgetown University. Other games involving Ohio teams are:

Xavier vs. Baldwin-Wallace at Berea; Hiram vs. Detroit Tech at Detroit; Assumption vs. Bluffton at Bluffton; Illinois Wesleyan vs. Akron at Akron; Wilberforce vs. Bluefield Teachers at Bluefield, W. Va.; Holbrook vs. Transylvania at Lexington, Ky.; Defiance vs. Findlay at Findlay; and John Carroll vs. St. Benedicts at Chicago.

Kent State and Bowling Green triumphed in Ohio conference games played yesterday.

Kent State defeated Ashland 14 to 0 in the concluding game of its season. The victory gave Kent State a record for the year of three triumphs, four losses and a tie.

The game between Defiance and Findlay, originally scheduled yesterday, will be played Saturday.

Saturday's Illinois Tilt
Buckeyes' Homecoming

COLUMBUS, Nov. 12—In the mid-west's outstanding football fare Ohio State and Illinois clash at Ohio stadium Saturday. Added to the colorful background of this traditionally great game will be the pageantry of Ohio State's annual homecoming.

Coincidentally with the fact that this is Coach Robert Zuppke's silver anniversary as the head of Illinois football, this year marks the twenty-fifth season since Ohio State's entry in the Western Conference.

In the long series with Illinois, the Bucks are one down to their rivals in total victories. To date the figures show that Illinois has won 12, Ohio State 11, and two games have resulted in ties.

Although the ticket sale for Saturday's game has been moving briskly there are still plenty of good seats available. It will be the last home game of 1937 for the Scarlet and Gray.

Fresh from their great victory over Northwestern, the men of Illinois present an impressive season record including a scoreless tie against Notre Dame. Here are the records of both Bucks and Illinois to date:

INSPIRED GOPHER
TEAM TO BATTLE
CRIPPLED 'CATS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 12 — (UP)—Minnesota is inspired, Northwestern is crippled, but 64,000 fans will jam memorial stadium Saturday fearful that the defending Big Ten champions may repeat their stunning victory of 1936 and throw the conference campaign into a four team race.

There is good reason to fear Northwestern. Although the Wildcats are more of an underdog this week than they were last October when they tumbled Minnesota at the crest of a 21-game winning streak their Gopher series is packed with upsets.

Minnesota must sweep its remaining games with Northwestern and Wisconsin to claim an undisputed title. If they lose to either one, Indiana, Ohio State or Wisconsin have an outside chance of stepping in for at least a share of the crown. Ohio State can win it outright.

All three contenders will push their title cause Saturday. Ohio State, which plays one more conference game than the others, battles stubborn Illinois at Columbus, Indiana travels to Iowa and Purdue meets Wisconsin at Madison.

Outside the league, Michigan invades the East to meet Pennsylvania and Beloit college steps into faster company for a game at Chicago.

Minnesota's great advantage over Northwestern extends into every department of play. In Harold Van Every, Bernie Bierman has brought along a dangerous forward passer who can run and block as well. The Gophers are well-stocked with reserves while Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern will have difficulty finding enough unbandaged men to keep firing into the game. Waldorf said Guard Mike Calvano and Center Erwin Wagner definitely would not play. Five others were doubtful.

Marietta, Nov. 11—Marietta High School's football team won a hard-fought game here Thursday before a crowd of 3,500 fans.

Marietta's first score came in the second period when Nichols plunged over the goal line to climax a 62-yard drive featured by Ross's 25-yard gain on a "Statue of Liberty" play and a 15-yard pass, Nichols to Williams.

The home eleven scored again in the fourth period when Williams ran for a touchdown on the first play after a Chillocothe punt went out of bounds on Chillocothe's 36-yard line. Marietta converted on a plunge by Nichols and on a pass to Haddad.

Taking the kickoff after Marietta's touchdown, Ludwig returned the ball to Marietta's 32. On the next play he passed to West for a touchdown. Miller dropkicked the extra point.

LINEUP ABOUT CERTAIN

Signal-Calling Job Has Mentor
In Doubt

A large crowd is expected to witness the high school-Grove City grid contest tonight at 8 o'clock. The game will be the last of the home season for the Tigers, the Urbana contest next week ending play.

Grove City is bringing a light, but speedy outfit to Circleville and its coach, Red Trego, former Capital athlete, is expecting to win. Trego has seen the Tigers perform several times.

The record of the Grovers is fair. They have lost several games, but have put up real battles in all their defeats. If the Red and Black Tigers are to win they will have to fight.

The Tigers will go into the game in fair condition, but without the services of Quarterback Paul Walters who cracked a shoulder bone at Logan last week. Coach Jack Landrum is not certain who will be at the signal-barking post although he has been using Junior Martin, regular center, at the job most of the time.

No material changes are planned in the lineup except that Jim Price will take over the center job if Martin goes to the backfield. If Price does not get the nod, then it will go to Dub Nelson.

Bob Pickard, whose nose was flattened in a scrimmage last week, will start at the right wing if it is at all possible for him to play. Dave Jackson will be at the other; Rooney and Bob Liston will start at tackles, Gene Arledge and Earl Garner at the guards. Other backs will be Martin Walters and the two freshmen, Frank Woodward and Marvin Jenkins.

Zuppke Claims His Gridders
Get Along All Right In Life

By BOB ZUPPKE
As told to Bill Braucher
QUESTION—Zup, how about the relative success of college football players in life as contrasted with other graduates.

ZUPPKE—Get this to start with: success is a broad term. I take it you are talking about material success. What you mean is: what kind of bread-winners, providers for the family, are the football men? That's worth discussing for the first duty of anyone is to win bread for himself and dependents. Life is not only a struggle for existence but for respect. My observation is that the football men are above the average as providers and that they have the respect of their fellows. Their training is valuable. They may receive exaggerated praise but they are fortunate that this experience comes early and they get over it quickly. Football, like life, is a stern master. In both you must work hard and show ability to get anywhere.

Illini Doing All Right
QUESTION—Can you mention a few old-time Illinois stars who stand out for their success?

ZUPPKE—It's an injustice to mention a few men with others who deserve it equally. Offhand I think of Ralph Chapman, captain of our 1914 championship team and a Camp All-American, a leading investment broker in Chicago; Bob Fletcher, whose placekick beat Ohio State in 1919, a big guy with the Ohio Oil Co.; Milt Olander, formerly my assistant, director of personnel for the Owens-Illinois Glass company; Charley Moynihan, one of the leading lawyers in Colorado; Judge Clyde Stone of the Illinois supreme court—I could rattle 'em off but these give you a hint. Fred Healy, vice president of the Curtis Publishing company, was a sub quarter-back at Illinois.

Many Are Coaching
Many Illinois graduates are engaged in coaching and physical education and I consider that they are just as successful in the real meaning of life as the man who accumulates more money. Men like Potay Clark, Red Grange, George Halas, Don Peden, Burt Ingwersen, Bunny Oakes, Doug Fessenden, to name only a few of our old-timers who are coaching, are successes.

After all, success in life means making the grade in the field for which you are adapted. The football man has learned a necessary lesson earlier than many of his college-mates; to put everything he has into his job—and most of the boys never forget this.

HIDDEN MONEY NAMED MOTIVE OF MURDERER

67-Year-Old Chicago Divorcee Found Dead; Brutality Seen By Police

CASH, BONDS FOUND Wire Used To Strangle Aged Relief

CHICAGO, Nov. 12.—(UP)—The hidden wealth of a 67-year-old divorcee, who lived in abject poverty while subsisting on relief, was revealed today as police investigated her brutal torture-murder.

The woman, Mrs. Bertha De Meyer, whose semi-nude body was found in her shabby home late yesterday, apparently had been tortured and beaten by robbers in an effort to make her give up her money. She was strangled with a wire.

Police found hidden in the five-room apartment, money and bonds amounting to more than $2,500, which the killer had missed in ransacking the place.

Three real estate bonds worth $1,500 were stuffed in a cushion of a chair. A $1,000 mortgage was found among papers spread beneath a rug. In a bank book, hidden under a sofa, was $140. The book showed a balance of $352. Six dollars was found in the bottom of an old ice box.

On Relief Five Years Mrs. De Meyer had been divorced twice, the last time from Gustave De Meyer in 1928. She had been on relief since then.

The murder was discovered by Walter Krukow, a coal dealer with offices in the same building, who investigated when he found the rear door of Mrs. De Meyer's apartment open.

The place was a shambles. The killer had strewn contents of dresser drawers and slashed open a mattress in his search.

Mrs. De Meyer's body was to be examined by Deputy Coroner Jerry J. Kerns today to determine whether she had been criminally attacked.

WAR VETERANS PUT ON ANNUAL CELEBRATION

300 Persons Take Part In Procession; Bombs and Red Flares Used

With aerial bombs, fireworks, martial music and a parade approximately four blocks in length, Circleville turned back its memories 19 years Thursday night in a fitting observance of Armistice Day.

About three hundred persons participated in the parade that formed at Memorial Hall, wound through the down town district, and disbanded at the hall. Dancing, a turkey and duck shoot, and various other amusements were enjoyed by the public in the hall following the parade.

Organizations participating in the parade included the National Guard, Circleville Medical Corps, American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Daughters of the Union Veterans, Red Men, B. P. O. Elks, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Eagles, city and county officers and representatives of city officialdom. Music was furnished by the American Legion drum corps and the junior band of Circleville schools. More than sixty members of the B. P. O. Elks lodge marched in the parade. A group of members carried a large flag.

Circleville's observance of Armistice Day was sponsored by Howard Hall post, American Legion. Aerial bombs and fireworks were discharged during the parade from the courthouse yard.

DR. BALES' SIXTH TRIP IN QUEST OF SHELLS TO START

Dr. and Mrs. B. R. Bales start a 2,600-mile trip next Tuesday to Acapulco, Mexico, south of Mexico City, to spend the winter.

Dr. Bales exchanges shells with collectors in France, Germany, Sweden, Hawaii, Australia, British Columbia, Cuba, and throughout the United States and Canada.

The Baleses plan to attend some of the fiestas in Mexico during their trip.

R.E.A. also announced approval of requisitions totaling more than $100,000 for other Ohio projects. They are Coshocton county $27,400; Morrow, Knox, Richland and Delaware counties $30,100; Auglaize, Mercer and Darke counties $13,100, and Darke, Preble and Mercer counties $30,800.

FUGITIVE'S GUN BEING TESTED BY STATE EXPERTS

CHILLICOTHE, Nov. 12—A pistol dropped by Harold "Flick" Knisley during an escape from officers at a Bainbridge home has been sent to Cleveland for ballistics tests to determine whether it was the gun used in the slaying of George Conn, highway patrolman, near Freeport, Sept. 27.

The gun was dropped when Knisley slid down a rain spout. He is wanted as a fugitive from the London prison farm where he was serving a term of one to 15 years for a Highland county burglary. He escaped in March.

Billy Rose to Marry Eleanor Holm, He Says

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 12—(UP)—Billy Rose, the little man with the big shows, announced today that he would marry Eleanor Holm, Arthur Jarrett, a dance orchestra leader.

Rose and Miss Brice, who was one of the original "torch singers" of the vaudeville circuits, have been estranged several months. So have Miss Holm and her husband, Arthur Jarrett, a dance orchestra leader.

The trouble with both couples, Rose said, was that Miss Brice and Jarrett spent too much time in the spotlights, while he and Miss Holm agreed that a wife's place was at her husband's side. Miss Holm has promised to stay by his side when they are married, he said.

Rose and Miss Holm were leaving here together for the West coast today. They came here from Fort Worth, where they joined company November 5.

Eleanor To File "I want Miss Brice to get a divorce as soon as possible, and I think she will although I haven't talked to her about it," the showman said. "Miss Holm will file for a divorce from Arthur Jarrett very soon. After the divorces are granted, we'll be married just as soon as the law allows."

Miss Holm was with him when he made the statement to newspaper men in a hotel. She added little to it, but nodded assent and said she intended to abandon both her movie and swimming careers and make Rose a good wife.

Miss Holm, a beautiful, shapely former backstroke champion, first moved from the sports section to the front pages of newspapers when she was dismissed from the American Olympic team for a champagne drinking incident on board ship en route to the games in Germany last year. She took the dismissal in her stride, capitalized on the publicity, turned professional and won a movie contract. Her first assignment was that of a mate for Tarzan, the ape man of the jungle pictures.

As an organizer and promoter of entertainment, Rose probably has had no peer since the late P. T. Barnum. For the last two Summers he has been paid $1,000 a day for 100 days to promote the centennial show in Fort Worth. At the same time he was directing Broadway productions, a water festival in Cleveland and various other enterprises. He started off the Fort Worth festivities by moving there with the entire cast, scenery, the Paul Whiteman orchestra and trappings of his

BULLET WOUNDS END IN DEATH OF OHIO WOMAN

DAYTON, Nov. 12—(UP)—Mrs. Beatrice Rowland, 21, estranged wife of Willard Rowland, 28, died here yesterday of shot wounds inflicted by her husband. After fatally wounding his wife, Rowland killed himself at the home of his mother-in-law, police said.

Broadway production "Jumbo," which had been one of the most elaborate and optimistic undertakings ever on Broadway.

Fannie's Third Rose is Miss Brice's third husband. She is 46; he 37, he said. Miss Brice was in Hollywood and she declined to comment immediately. Her specialties are comical songs and pantomime but she has introduced and made famous several of the popular wistful tunes of the last 20 years.

Soviet Russia Purges Its Diplomatic Corps

LONDON, Nov. 12—(UP)—Three key Russian ambassadors were reported today to be involved in a purge of the Soviet government diplomatic corps, a dramatic climax to a merciless campaign against "enemies of the state."

The United Press correspondent at Moscow reported that Constantine Yurenev, ambassador to Germany, and Michael Karski, ambassador to Turkey, had been arrested, apparently in connection with a new purge. The correspondent added that the reports had not been confirmed officially.

Warsaw newspapers published a report that not only Russian Ambassador Janov K. Daytjan but C. Alexandrov, second secretary and press attache, were involved. They are believed now to be in Moscow, and the Warsaw newspapers, in a dispatch carried by the authoritative Polish telegraph agency, reported that they would not return to their posts.

In transmitting the report that the ambassadors to Germany and Turkey had been arrested, the United Press correspondent said that the German consul general at Leningrad had been recalled at the request of the Russian government.

This request was similar to demands made on Japan several weeks ago to remove two consuls in Russian Far Eastern cities.

As in the case of the demand on Japan, Russia cited to Germany, the United Press correspondent said that the request was made to equalize the number of consuls exchanged between Russia and Germany. Russia explained that there were only two Russian consulates in Germany against four or five German consulates in Russia.

Constantine Yurenev, the Russian ambassador to Germany, is a star of the Soviet diplomatic corps. He was named to his present post only on June 17, and significantly perhaps, he was transferred there from Japan, with which Germany several months previously had negotiated its anti-Communist alliance—to which Italy has now adhered.

Like many men who have fallen victim to the purge, Yurenev is a veteran Bolshevik. He has been a member of the Bolshevik party since 1905, when he was 17 years old. Frequently in prison or in exile, he was one of the organizers of the Red cavalry which became famous in the civil war that followed the Bolshevik revolution of 1917.

Billy Rose to Marry Eleanor Holm, He Says

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 12—(UP)—Billy Rose, the little man with the big shows, announced today that he would marry Eleanor Holm Jarrett, the swimmer and movie star, if his present wife Fannie Brice, will divorce him.

Rose and Miss Brice, who was one of the original "torch singers" of the vaudeville circuits, have been estranged several months. So have Miss Holm and her husband, Arthur Jarrett, a dance orchestra leader.

The trouble with both couples, Rose said, was that Miss Brice and Jarrett spent too much time in the spotlights, while he and Miss Holm agreed that a wife's place was at her husband's side. Miss Holm has promised to stay by his side when they are married, he said.

Rose and Miss Holm were leaving here together for the West coast today. They came here from Fort Worth, where they joined company November 5.

Eleanor To File "I want Miss Brice to get a divorce as soon as possible, and I think she will although I haven't talked to her about it," the showman said. "Miss Holm will file for a divorce from Arthur Jarrett very soon. After the divorces are granted, we'll be married just as soon as the law allows."

Miss Holm was with him when he made the statement to newspaper men in a hotel. She added little to it, but nodded assent and said she intended to abandon both

Soviet Russia Purges Its Diplomatic Corps

LONDON, Nov. 12—(UP)—Three key Russian ambassadors were reported today to be involved in a purge of the Soviet government diplomatic corps, a dramatic climax to a merciless campaign against "enemies of the state."

The United Press correspondent at Moscow reported that Constantine Yurenev, ambassador to Germany, and Michael Karski, ambassador to Turkey, had been arrested, apparently in connection with a new purge. The correspondent added that the reports had not been confirmed officially.

Warsaw newspapers published a report that not only Russian Ambassador Janov K. Davtian but C. Alexandrov, second secretary and press attache, were involved. They are believed now to be in Moscow, and the Warsaw newspapers, in a dispatch carried by the authoritative Polish telegraph agency, reported that they would not return to their posts.

In transmitting the report that the ambassadors to Germany and Turkey had been arrested, the United Press correspondent said that the German consul general at Leningrad had been recalled at the request of the Russian government.

This request was similar to demands made on Japan several weeks ago to remove two consuls in Russian Far Eastern cities.

As in the case of the demand on Japan, Russia cited to Germany, the United Press correspondent said that the request was made to equalize the number of consuls exchanged between Russia and Germany. Russia explained that there were only two Russian consulates in Germany against four or five German consulates in Russia.

Constantine Yurenev, the Russian ambassador to Germany, is a star of the Soviet diplomatic corps. He was named to his present post only on June 17, and significantly perhaps, he was transferred there from Japan, with which Germany several months previously had negotiated its anti-Communist alliance—to which Italy has now adhered.

Like many men who have fallen victim to the purge, Yurenev is a veteran Bolshevik. He has been a member of the Bolshevik party since 1905, when he was 17 years old. Frequently in prison or in exile, he was one of the organizers of the Red cavalry which became famous in the civil war that followed the Bolshevik revolution of 1917.
